U.S. Guided Missiles Due For Germany

2 Pilotless Bomber Squadrons Will Be Moved Into Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is arming its forces in Germany with guided missiles capable of carrying atomic warheads hundreds of miles into Red-held territory.

The Air Force announced tersely last night that it will send two pilotless bomber squadrons to Germany this year. No details were given.

Retaliatory Strategy

This move seemed to fit into basic U. S. strategy defined by Secretary of State Dulles in a New York speech Tuesday and affirmed by President Eisenhower at his news conference the next day.

This strategy, Dulles said, is based on "massive retaliatory power" to deter Soviet aggression.

In this connection, the decision to augment the fire power of American forces helping defend Western Europe immediately raised a question:

Would this mean fewer American troops in Europe?

"No, not in itself," Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson told reporters yesterday. He didn't say more.

Matador Missiles

The two squadrons bound for Germany will be equipped with B61 Matador missiles. These have been in mass production at the Baltimore plant of the Glenn L. Martin Co. for more than a year.

The Air Force did not disclose the number of missiles in a squadron, but it is believed several hundred may be allotted to each. By comparison, a squadron of jet fighters numbers about 25 planes.

The Matador is the first offensive guided missile to be turned over to a tactical unit of the United States armed forces. Other such missiles with greater speed and wider range are being designed or are undergoing tests.

Pack 3-Way Punch

When the Matadors arrive, U. S. forces in Europe will pack a three-way atomic punch:

U. S. Air Force jet and piston engine planes that can carry atomic bombs, the giant 280 millimeter atomic cannon, and the guided missiles that could be used to strike at Soviet troop concentrations, supply depots and communications centers hundreds of miles back of the lines, if war came.

Aviation and rocket experts consider anything which can be controlled from the ground, or which also takes over its own control through an electronic "brain", a guided missile.

The Matador is about the same size and shape as a conventional fighter. The differences, aside from the missile's self-steering radar and radio system, are these:

1. The Matador neds no takeoff run. It is hurled into the air by a powerful rocket with a thrust of about 40,000 pounds. Two seconds later, with the missile airborne and well on its way, the rocket burns out and a J37 jet engine takes over propulsion.

2. Having no pilot and free of the mass of instruments and controls needed to fly a plane, the Matador can carry a far heavier load than a comparable jet fighter. It is entirely possible that an atomic warhead close to the size used for strategic bombing could be loaded into the Matador.

Measured against the known range of a comparable jet fighter, the Matador presumably has a range well beyond 500 miles—perhaps approaching 1,000 miles.

The Matador's speed, during all of its flight except the final dive at its target, must be assumed as sub-sonic (less than about 700 miles an hour). Thus, it could be vulnerable to some of the newest types of interceptors which have speeds up in the sonic range.

Two Men Killed In Ashland Crash

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Two huge trucks collided head-on last night, killing two men—one a driver, the other a hitchhiking sailor—and critically injuring a third man.

John R. Snyder, 28, of West Unity, driver of one of the trucks, and James Heathman, 23, of Mason, Mich., a sailor stationed at Norfolk, Va., were killed. Heathman was hitchhiking a ride with Snyder, the State Highway Patrol said.

Driver of the second truck, Kenneth J. Jenkins of Cleveland was in serious condition at Lodi Hospital where attendants said he might not survive.

The accident happened on Ohio 224, 13 miles north of Ashland.

More than 200 firemen, 35 engines and 2 fireboats battled the three-million dollar blaze in which 15 firemen were injured, most of them by flying bricks from collapsing walls.

Wants Results by April

Deadline on Korea Peace Set by Rhee

SEOUL (AP) —President Syngman Rhee today set an April deadline for the peaceful unification of Korea and warned that "We will not sit back and wait until we are sold out."

An official government spokesman later issued a statement modifying the aging President's warning.

Rhee told a news conference that 180 days after the start of preliminary Korea peace talks last Oct. 26 South Korea will be "free to take our own action—good, bad or indifferent."

Falls on April 23

This would make the deadline April 23.

Rhee reiterated the 180-day warning three times during the news conference. But six hours later Dr. Karl Hong Ki, official government spokesman, said the President "did not set a definite deadline of April 26 for Korean unification. . ."

Rhee said that even if a peace conference convenes "I do not expect any great achievement."

Asked about the possibility that no conference will be held, the ROK President replied:

"I think that would automatically relieve my government of the obligation for waiting."

Rhee said he would give Allied and Communist diplomats another month to "settle the time and place for a political (peace) conference."

"I could settle it in three days," he added.

90 Days for Conference

"Then the political conference should begin right away—give it 90 days, that's 180 days in all. After that, something must be done.

"Our brothers are begging and pleading with us to come and help them."

Twice previously Rhee has set deadlines for the peaceful unification of his country. And while he made no threats Saturday, in the past he has threatened to order his 18 American-equipped divisions to march into Communist-held North Korea.

Originally, Rhee said he would wait until Jan. 27—180 days after the Korean armistice was signed. Later he said he would wait for 90 days after the peace conference began before taking independent action.

Can't Wait Forever

Dr. Karl's statement said:

"What President Rhee was trying to point out is that we can not wait forever to free the suffering people of the North from Communist tyranny. In doing so, he posed a hypothetical case in which three months would be considered a reasonable time for the preliminary talks and another three months, as provided by the armistice agreement, for the political (peace) conference itself."

"Actually," Karl went on, "Presi-

Rhee Warning Taken Lightly By U.S. Brass

TOKYO (AP)—President Syngman Rhee's statement today that he would act on his own after April 23 unless some decision had been reached on the unification of Korea is contrary to what he has been telling the United Nations Command.

The impression around Gen. John E. Hull's Tokyo headquarters is that Rhee will respect the armistice, as he has been asked to do and had promised several U. S. representatives.

The South Korean army by itself could fight about six days before running out of ammunition, if it didn't have United Nations support.

Many people believe Rhee says one thing for home consumption and another for the U. N. Command.

He has been unpredictable always, however. He turned 27,000 Communist prisoners loose without warning and almost wrecked the armistice talks when the truce document was all but signed.

The only reason that might lead him to resume the war on his own would be the belief that the United Nations forces would have to join him in the fight or be overrun.

Whether or not there would be time to pull out and leave him to his fate is a matter of conjecture.

But that is exactly what Rhee has been told would happen.

Robinson, Anderson Want Post

Two Announce Intention To Seek Legislature Seat

Two Marion men today announced their candidacies for nomination as Marion County representative to the Ohio General Assembly.

Virgil L. Anderson, Marion County farmer and educator, announced he will seek the Democratic nomination.

Kenneth A. Robinson, Marion attorney and present representative, is planning to seek the Republican nomination.

ROBINSON, a native Marion Countian, was graduated from Harding High School and from Ohio Northern University. He has practiced law in Marion since 1927, and is a former solicitor of Marion.

He is currently completing his fourth two-year term as Marion County representative to the Ohio Legislature, in which he has held several important committee posts.

ROBINSON IS currently serving as chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and is a member of the Inter-state Cooperative Committee and the State Office Planning Commission.

He formerly was chairman of the Ohio Un-American Activities Committee, and served as a member of the Code Revision Committee.

He served as a special agent with the Counter Intelligence Corps of the U. S. Air Force for approximately four years during the second World War.

He and Mrs. Robinson, the for-

Ike's Atomic Policy Aides In Conference

President's Proposal For Pool of Resources Topic of Discussion

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower called advisers on atomic policy into conference today, presumably to discuss negotiations with Russia for the creation of an international pool of atomic resources for peaceful use.

Summoned to meet at the White House were Secretary of State Dulles, Chairman Lewis Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, Secretary of Defense Wilson and White House aide C. D. Jackson.

Subject Not Disclosed

The White House announced last night that the meeting would be held but gave no official word on the subject of discussion. However, the major project of the United States government on international aspects of atomic policy at this time is to enlist Soviet cooperation in the pool plan proposed by President Eisenhower.

Two developments are in prospect within the next two weeks. Dulles is expected to have a second conference early next week with Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin on arrangements for talks on the plan between the United States and Soviet governments. Their first meeting was last Monday.

The following week, if the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting goes on as scheduled in Berlin, Dulles is expected to take up the Eisenhower plan directly with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov.

Want To Know Red Intent

Informed officials say privately that the present concern of the President, Dulles, and other policymakers is to try to remove any minor obstacles that might stall Soviet cooperation and to determine whether the Soviet government really is seriously interested in joining the proposed pool.

The plan was put forward by Eisenhower in a speech at the United Nations Dec. 8. He suggested that the world's atomic powers—which are principally the United States, Russia and Britain—contribute some percentage of their atomic resources to an international agency which would use the material for peaceful purposes such as power development. The idea was that agreement on controlling military use of nuclear energy might grow out of this international activity.

The Russians said the proposal failed to offer any solution for the control of atomic weapons, but agreed to talk with the United States about the whole idea. They served notice that they would insist upon a proposal of their own for an international pledge not to use atomic weapons.

Effectiveness Of Amendment Under Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), renewing today efforts to find a compromise on the Senate-splitting proposal to limit treaty-making powers, said he doubts legislation would accomplish what most proponents want.

Ferguson said in an interview he believes most of the support for a constitutional amendment proposed by Sen. Bricker (R-Mich) "comes from people who don't want any more Yaltas."

But Ferguson said he doubts any constitutional amendment could head off possible future presidential agreements such as those made by Franklin D. Roosevelt when he met during World War II in the Soviet city with the late Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill of Britain.

"I don't believe you can cure a situation such as that which existed at Yalta," Ferguson said. "That

Talks To Reopen On Big Four Parley

BERLIN (AP)—Four power talks to decide a site for the foreign ministers conference in Berlin Jan. 25 will be reopened today in the British headquarters of West Berlin.

The British, who are in the chair this month for four power questions, issued a communique saying:

"A meeting of the representatives of the United Kingdom, the United States, France and the U. S. S. R. takes place at British headquarters today."

The three Western commandants received instructions to resume the interrupted discussions on location of the Big Four meeting, now an urgent matter with the opening date only nine days away.

U.N. Command Will Take 22,000 Anti-Communists But Not as War Prisoners

HELD RADAR JOB WHILE RED. Professor Wendell Furry (right) of Harvard University tells a Senate subcommittee in Boston that he was one of six Communist party members who worked in a top-secret radar lab at the university during the war. Leon Kamin (left), a research assistant at Harvard, admitted to the same committee that he was a party member as late as 1950.

Men 'Entitled To Freedom As Civilians'

Gen. John Hull Gives Reply to Decision of Repatriation Group

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The U.N. Command said tonight it will accept from the Indians 22,000 unrepatriated anti-Communist war prisoners—but not on India's condition they remain prisoners.

Gen. John E. Hull, U.N. commander, wrote the Indian Command that as of Jan. 23 the U.N. will consider the prisoners "entitled to their freedom as civilians."

Answer to Decision

Hull's letter was the U.N. answer to India's decision to turn back to their captors all unrepatriated war prisoners starting Wednesday.

However, Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Repatriation Commission, said it would be an armistice violation if either side changed the status of the POWs.

The Communists were expected to oppose the Indian decision since they want all prisoners kept in neutral custody until a peace conference decides their fate.

Allied Contention

The Allies contend under terms of the armistice all unrepatriated POWs must be liberated as civilians at midnight next Friday.

"For the United Nations Command now to agree to further and indefinitely prolong captivity of these prisoners of war would negate the very principle of human rights for which so many men of this command have fought and died," Hull wrote.

"Such unjust and unworthy action is intolerable to any free people, and is obviously unthinkable."

Indian troops, meanwhile, completed plans for turning back the

DIES IN CHAIR. Dovie Blanche Dean, 55-year-old grandmother, died in the electric chair at the Ohio penitentiary for the Aug. 22, 1952, arsenic slaying of her 69-year-old husband, Hawkins Dean, Clermont County, O., farmer. She was the second woman executed in Ohio's history.

Mrs. Dean Dies Quietly in Ohio Electric Chair

Slayer of Husband Only Second Woman To Be Electrocuted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dismal winter rain beat against the walls of Ohio Penitentiary last night as a plump, gray-haired grandmother died in the electric chair at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Dovie Blanche Dean, 55, convicted of murdering her husband by slipping rat poison into his milk, died silently and with downcast eyes. The state contended she killed him for his $27,000 estate.

The husband of four months, Hawkins, 68, died at their Clermont County farm near Owensville Aug. 22, 1952.

Last Request Denied

Mrs. Dean's last request made while waiting in an antechamber to the death house was not granted. She had asked that someone sing her favorite hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Instead, the Rev. C. W. Wilsher read the requested hymn.

She drank some coffee while waiting in the adjoining cell but refused an assortment of fancy cookies.

"I'll eat a couple later," she said. She sat with hands clasped only waiting, and smiled faintly once at two prison matrons.

She was helped into the death house and strapped into the big chair. Her gray hair was shaved at the crown for the electrode to make contact.

At 8 p. m., 1,950 volts of electricity jerked the short, stocky body violently against the straps At 8:07 p. m. she was pronounced dead.

Second Woman Executed

She was the second woman to be executed in Ohio's penal history. The first was Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn of Cincinnati, a buxom blonde accused of poisoning elderly suitors. A little more than 15 years ago, on Dec. 7, 1938, she was carried to the chair screaming: "Don't do that to me! No! No! No!"

Mrs. Dean, who has been called the woman who couldn't cry, was obviously pale and her red-chapped hands gripped tightly the arms of the death seat. But she said nothing; she looked at no one. She did not cry.

She died in a cheap, blue cotton dress, flat-heeled hoes and white anklets.

She arrived at the penitentiary at 6:59 p. m. from the Marysville Reformatory where she had lived since March 4 last year. There she gained 36 pounds, read the Bible, kept a pet parakeet named Charlie, and crocheted. She chatted pleasantly with visitors. She slept well and had a good appetite.

She seemed to enjoy her last

Sen. McCarthy Resumes Probe Of Communists

GE Employes Believed New Targets; Harvard Teachers Admit Ties

BOSTON (AP) — Some half dozen witnesses were scheduled to appear today before Sen. Joseph McCarthy's traveling investigating committee today as the Wisconsin Republican's current probe of suspected communism in Massachusetts enters its second day.

McCarthy hinted last night that the witnesses would be General Electric workers. Ten GE employes testified yesterday at a closed session and McCarthy later told newsmen that four of them invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked questions concerning communism.

Harvard Men Silent

Two members of the Harvard University faculty testified at yesterday's public committee hearing. Both admitted being former members of the Communist party but both refused to answer when asked to name their associates in the party.

McCarthy said he planned at "the earliest possible moment" to ask Senate contempt citations against physics Prof. Wendell Furry—a frequent target of the McCarthy probes—and Leon J. Kamin, a $3,200 a year research assistant.

The 47-year-old Furry testified that he was one of a half dozen Communist party members who worked on a top secret radar project at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology during World War II. But he flatly declined to name the others.

Furry's Position

Prof. Furry, who waived his Fifth Amendment privileges after invoking them at three prior hearings, said he has not been a member of the Communist party since at least March, 1951.

Of his refusal to name names, Furry said: "I am not seeking to protect the guilty from prosecution—I wish merely to secure the innocent from persecution."

He added, however, that he wished to make it clear "If I knew of any person whose conduct as I saw it was criminal, I should feel duty bound to reveal these facts."

Kamin, 26, who admitted he had been a paid employe of the Communist party in Massachusetts, testified he had been a member of the party during two separate periods—November, 1945, to January, 1946, and from November,

Recall of U.N. For Debate on Korea Opposed

U.S., Other Big Powers Reject Proposal by President of Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States with support of other big powers gave the cold shoulder today to India's proposal to recall the U.N. General Assembly Feb. 9 for debate on Korea.

Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, of India, the Assembly president, had issued the call earlier this week, asking for replies by Jan. 22.

The United States said it would not be able to decide by that date—which meant that the U. S. didn't want a session called while the prisoner question and the Korean political conference talks remained up in the air. The U. S. left the door open for a later meeting by adding it was keeping the proposal under consideration.

Reportedly taking the same view were Britain, France, Australia and the Netherlands—all members of the U.N. Allied force in Korea.

The Soviet bloc, except for Poland, went on record supporting Mrs. Pandit's plea for the resumed session. Iraq alone among the 16-nation Asian-African bloc also reported it supported the call.

No Word on Return

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold sent to Mrs. Pandit in New Delhi his appraisal of the situation through the Indian delegation.

An Indian spokesman said Mrs. Pandit has given no indication when she intends to return here. The deputy Indian delegation leader, V. K. Krisha Menon, is expected late this month.

Western States Hit by Blizzard

Bitter Cold Wave Heads for Midwest

By The Associated Press

A mid-January blizzard whistled across the Northern Plains from Montana and Wyoming today as the season's coldest weather headed for wide areas in the mid-continent.

Arctic air extended over wide areas of Montana, the Dakotas and parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin today. It headed south and eastward and bone-chilling weather was in prospect for the central part of the country over the weekend.

Temperatures today were near 30 degrees below zero in parts of the cold belt. Fresh falls of snow were in prospect for many areas. Flurries and light to moderate snow fell today in the northern Midwest states.

36 Million Deposits

Resources of Marion's 3 Banks Nearly 40 Million

Total resources of Marion County's banks set a new, all-time record in 1953, reflecting the excellent financial and economic conditions prevailing in this area, the Ohio Bankers Association reported today. Total resources amounted to $39,269,83 at the close of the year. This sum was arrived at by combining the year-end statements of the various banks.

Despite some leveling off in the nation's economy, individuals, businessmen and industries continued to increase their bank deposits throughout the past year, thereby making funds available which the banks employed in meeting the financial needs of the community with all types of loans.

THE OFFICIAL reports of condition, made by the banks to governmental authorities, disclosed that Marion County banks had on deposit with them a total of $36,065,355, in both savings and checking accounts. Of that amount, $15,140,627 were used in making loans for business developments, home buying and construction, automobile purchases and hundreds of other day-to-day needs of local people.

These totals how that local residents have kept up with or a little ahead of the national trend in savings. While the total looks surprisingly large, the bankers here point out that it is made up of thousands of deposits ranging from the small checking and savings accounts of individuals up to the working funds and reserves of both

Confident Living

Release From Physical Tension

Do you ever find yourself drumming your fingers? Tapping your feet? Stroking your cheek? Biting your nails?

DR. PEALE

All these habits are evidences of one thing — muscle tension in the body. And the body is a complicated instrument. The motivating factors which permit you to raise your arm, and shut your eyes, eat and speak are things men of science would give anything to know how to reproduce. We are still trying to find out more about the complicated relationships between our bodies and our minds.

Som eyears ago, I became convinced that muscle tension had so much to do with mental tension that I determined to practice bodily stillnes techniques. I found them very helpful and effective.

IN THE COURSE of my investigation of this subject, I attended a demonstration of the ancient Hindu practice of yoga. The yogi giving the demonstration sat for one solid hour without twitching a muscle. I tried it myself and thought I was going to die. I could hardly stand it. I even seemed to hear myself swallow.

But I soon found that the secret is to relax and think of every part of your body as quiet and still. You have to believe that God is giving his peace to your muscles and nerves. When you get this stillness in your body, you are in tune with the harmonious factors of the universe and the re-creative powers of God.

One day, at my farm in Dutchess County, New York. I went for a walk. It was a glorious summer day and I walked past one of our meadows, noticing that, as the wheat rippled in the wind, it resembled the gentle undulation of the sea.

I WAS REMINDED of a woman who told me of going down to Florida for a rest after a nervous breakdown and lying on the sand day after day watching the sea. Suddenly she became aware that the beating of the waves against the shore synchronized perfectly with the beat of her own heart.

Then she noticed a blade of beach grass waving in the breeze, and its movement too was in rhythm with the beating of her heart and the pounding of the surf on the sand. Suddenly, for the first time, she felt the inner harmony and stillness of the universe and its close relationship to herself.

As I thought about her experience while sitting on the fence and watching the wind ruffle the wheat, I had a delicious sense of physical well-being. God's harmony was touching me. In body, mind and spirit, I felt his quietness.

YOU CAN PRACTICE stillness of the body, even in the midst of a world full of tumult, and achieve release from tension. One way to do this is to lie down on some fairly flat surface, like the floor, where you can keep the backbone straight and the organs in proper balance. Start with your feet and say, "The stillness of God is in my toes, my feet . . ." Come up through every part of your body saying, "The stillness of God is in my heart, my lungs, my stomach, my fingers, my arms, the muscles of my neck, my face, the lids of my eyes . . ."

What you are really doing is paraphrasing the Bible and saying to yourself, "Be still, (my physical body), and know that I am God." If you can conceive of His hand as touching every part of your body with His healing touch, you can find release from physical tension.

Methodist Ministers Talk Over Drive

Enthusiastic about the response already received in the program here among their combined 3,688 members, they report "Our congregations are larger each Sunday. God's Spirit is truly stirring in our midst. We are praying for God's guidance and inspiration."

They meet together each Tuesday morning to plan their sermons on "Methodist Beliefs." The general slogan of the crusade is "Give God a Chance Now!" and their sermon theme for Sunday morning is "We Believe in God." This emphasis is being made also in the four Church Schools here which have combined enrollment of 2,716 with average attendance of 1,171. The crusade includes beservices, the activities of families worshiping together, and practice of daily prayer and Bible reading as "important holy habits."

The pastors believe that Marion Methodists will do their part creditably in carrying on this program of evangelism which is under direction of the General Board of Evangelsm with headquarters at Nashville, Tenn.

Plans for a special Lenten emphasis are being made by the four churches in the city as well as the 12 churches of the denomination in the county in cooperation with the program for the largest area in World Methodism, 700,000 members of the 1,900 Ohio Methodist Churches under the leadership of the area head, Bishop Hazen G. Werner of Columbus.

Loaf of Bread OK, Jug of Wine Is Not

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Hauled before the Common Pleas Court on a charge he failed to support his wife and three children, Edison Hughes of Middletown said he did help provide for them.

"What did you provide them with," demanded Judge Fred B. Cramer yesterday.

"Well, I took some wine home to settle the wife's nerves,' 'he replied.

"You probably drank it yourself," the judge said. ". . . Six months in the workhouse for you."

Sow Bred on Marion Farm Wins Top Honor

Charles D. Mehaffey & Son of near Prospect bred one of the sows recently selected to the all-American herd, the Hampshire Swine Registry of Peoria, Ill., announced today.

Mehaffey bred Sturdi Prize Miss, named all-American junior spring gilt. She was shown to the head of her class at the 1953 Ohio State Fair. Since then she has been sold to Martin's Rock River Farm near Byron, Ill.

According to the Swine Registry, the all-Americans are the top individuals of the belted breed. Eight nationally known swine judges considered the 95 entries in the nation-wide competition.

WOMAN IS CONVICTED

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Convicted of shooting at a deputy sheriff, Grace Singer, 45, was sentenced yesterday to one to 20 years in Marysville Reformatory for Women. The Stark County prosecutor charged she fired at Dep. Sheriff Wilbur Unsworth Oct. 30 when he went to the Singer home to investigate a cab driver's complaint that the woman refused to pay a fare.

A standard Roman cohort contained about 600 men.

Carl William Smyers, 33, of the rear of 258 Elm St., was fined $100 and costs, given a three-year suspension of driver's rights and sentenced to five days in the county jail when he pleaded guilty in Municipal Court this morning to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

He was arrested by city police at 10:03 p.m. yesterday on N. Main St. at Mill St.

One other traffic arrest was reported this morning. Robert Warren Avery, 20, of Delaware, was arrested for speeding and posted bond for appearance in Municipal Court Tuesday.

Methodist Workshops Slated Here Wednesday

Representatives from Methodist churches of the eastern section of the Lima District will meet in Marion Wednesday night for a Literature and Visual Aids workshop at Prospect Street Methodist Church.

Staff members of the Inter-Board Council of the Ohio Conference will direct the meeting. There will be instruction for members of the churches' education commissions, women's societies, children's and youth secretaries, and Sunday School teachers. Rev. Fletcher E. Shoup is host pastor.

Health Board Appoints Two To Posts Here

Appointment of two men to new positions in the city department of health was announced today by the Marion Board of Health.

Joseph A. Purcell, assistant dairy and milk inspector since Feb. 1, 1950, was named to the newly-created position of city sanitatian. Appointed to his former position was Alfred L. Lamb of 578 E. George St.

Purcell's appointment is to fill the position created by City Council at its meeting last Monday night. His main duties will be inspection of restaurants and other food service operations in Marion for proper and sanitary food handling in compliance with the Ohio licensing law for such establishments which became effective Jan. 1.

Dr. J. T. Gruber, chief inspector in the department of health, said Purcell will inspect each of the restaurants periodically and will take test samples from cooking and eating utensils. These samples will be used by Dr. Gruber to make a laboratory analysis and bacteria counts to determine whether the counts are above the maximum for proper sanitation.

Purcell will also be charged with general sanitation inspections throughout the city, Dr. Gruber said.

Lamb's chief duties as assistant dairy and milk inspector will be inspection of dairy farms and milk plants serving the city and collection of samples for laboratory analysis by Dr. Gruber. Lamb was formerly employed as manager of Whitey's Restaurant on W. Mill St.

Responsibility of Youth Topic for Radio Panel

"Are Youth Meeting Their Responsibilities" will be the subject for discussion on the Marion Youth Forum program Sunday from 3 to 3:30 p.m. over Radio Station WMRN.

Overholt Endorsed For Bucyrus Post

BUCYRUS — James W. Overholt, an employe of the J. C Penney store here and a member of the Bucyrus Board of Education, has been endorsed unanimously by the Crawford County Republican Executive Committee for postmaster here, O. H. Hilborn, Tiro attorney and committee chairman, announced today.

A former executive at the Swan Rubber Co. here, Republican Overholt was one of 12 applicants for the position, which pays $5,870 a year. He placed first in a recent civil service examination for the position. Richard L. Hertzer, who served two years as acting postmaster and is a former Democratic mayor of Bucyrus was second. Fillmore H. Grauer, assistant postmaster, finished third and J. E. Auld, personnel manager at the Crawford Steel Foundry Co., was fourth.

Hilborn said the endorsement of Overholt will be sent to Cong. Jackson E. Betts for proper action.

Cline W. Warneck, a retired manufacturer and president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Assocation, has been acting postmaster since last May 29 when he replaced Hertzer. Warneck did not seek the permanent postmastership.

Overholt has been a Bucyrus resident about 25 years. He is a graduate of Heidelberg College at Tiffin, is married and has two sons.

Woman's Body Found in Attic, Husband Held

FOSTORIA, Ohio (UP)—A policeman's flashlight reached into a dark attic corner yesterday to pick out the body of Mrs. George Lloyd Buck, 27, missing since Saturday.

Police held her husband on an open charge and the Seneca County coroner returned a tentative verdict of homicide, the result of blows on the face and head.

The coroner, Dr. Q. B. Smith of Tiffin, said he would withhold a final verdict until additional tests are made at Ohio State University.

Patrolman Robert Barringer, poking his head up through a two-by-two foot trapdoor, discovered the body after returning to the Buck house following an unsuccessful search Wednesday.

Few Oppose Idea

Congressmen May Vote Themselves Pay Boosts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress appeared likely today to vote, probably next month, for substantial pay raises for its own members and for federal judges, starting next January.

A protest from Congress' own ranks that the pay already may be too high seemed to represent only a small minority's view.

May Scale Down Hike

But a special commission's recommendation that the legislators' annual gross income be hiked to $27,500 may be scaled down to $20,000 or $22,500, still a sizeable boost over the present $15,000.

House Majority Leader Halleck (R-Ind) predicted that Congress would approve a pay raise, though not necessarily the full amount recommended.

Outspoken opposition to the raise came from Rep. Burdick (R-ND) and Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich), but neither seemed optimistic about chances for blocking it.

Burdick disagreed with the commission's finding that congressmen are underpaid.

'Most Are Overpaid'

"Most of us are overpaid," he said. "Fifty per cent of the members couldn't make back home what they're getting here. This isn't hard work. We horse around for two months getting started and waste another month finishing up and then we take a vacation for four or five months."

During the six or seven months that Congress actually is in session, Burdick said, "Many members spend little time here, and when we're not in session, many of them travel around the world on junkets paid for by the taxpayers."

Burdick said he wouldn't oppose the boost if there is a roll-call vote, putting members on record publicly, if the raise is made effective not before next year, and if the same percentage of increase is given to the blind, the aged, the crippled and others receiving public assistance.

"Of course, those conditions won't be met," Burdick said. "The fellows who vote for this raise won't get it if it is made effective next year, because they won't be back."

This is a congressional election year—a fact which apparently worries some members who favor the raise.

Hoffman predicted that if Congress raises its own pay, it will encourage other government workers and employes in private industry to demand higher wages.

That, he said, would set off another round of inflation.

There was no publicly-stated congressional opposition to raising the pay of federal judges, also recommended by the commission.

Ohio Retail Merchants Appoint Don Quaintance

Don Quaintance, assistant manager of Uhler's Department store, has been named public affairs councillor for the Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants in Marion. He succeeds John Schaffner, who has been elected chairman of the legislative committee of the Retail Board of Managers of the local Chamber of Commerce.

In his letter of appointment from Columbus, Quaintance was told that he "will in this new position be rendering an important service to local merchants and to all merchants throughout the state".

CONTRIBUTION APPROVED

A contribution of $10.50 was made to the Marion County Polio campaign and a $5 health bond purchased from the Marion County Anti-Tuberculosis and Health Association at a recent meeting of the Friendly Farmers Council, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Payne west of Marion. Clarence Gracely, vice president, presided. Richard Boblenz was in charge of the discussion hour. Refreshments were served.

Review of Week's Developments

Highlights of Congressional Activities

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower sends to Capitol Hill three special messages outlining his views on farm, labor and social security legislation.

Farm program— Gets a cool reception from most Democrats and some Republicans, too. Most fire centers on Eisenhower's proposal to abandon rigid, high-level crop price guarantees in favor of flexible supports.

House Agriculture Committee members sound out grass-roots sentiment in visits to Enid, Okla., Waco, Tex., and Memphis, Tenn. and out of some 150 witnesses hear only one offer a kind word for the Eisenhower plan.

Labor message—Also runs into quite a bit of adverse reaction among the legislators, particularly that provision in the 14-point program which calls for government conduct of strike votes.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) of the Senate Labor Committee, who earlier objected to further hearings on proposed revisions of the Taft-Hartley labor relations law, bows to protests from several committee Democrats and others and schedules new hearings to start Jan. 25. Rep. Halleck of Indiana, House Republican leader, predicts Taft-Hartley revision legislation may be ready for House action in two or three weeks.

Social security proposals—Draw general applause from congressional ranks. The administration plan would boost benefits under the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program, enlarge its rolls by an estimated 10½ million and increase the amount of taxes to be collected to pay for benefits.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) forecasts passage of legislation "substantially carrying out the President's program." A Democratic leader, asking not to be quoted by name, says "you can bet your bottom dollar that few Democrats will oppose it."

Salaries—A special commission on salary problems reports the pay of Senators and House members should be hiked from $15,000 a year to $27,500, and of Supreme Court justices from $25,000 to $39,500. There are scattered protests against a congressional raise, but most Congress members seem likely to vote for an increase effective next January — although perhaps not for the full amount. No public criticism is heard of the proposed judicial pay boost.

Seaway—Senate debate gets underway on the long-contested proposal to okay U.S. parcitipation with Canada in building a St. Lawrence Seaway. Backers think they have enough votes to win this year, but they got a taste of the opposition when Sen. John M. Butler (R-MD) takes some 34,000 words and over five hours to say why he doesn't like it.

Bricker amendment—A proposed constitutional amendment to limit treaty-making powers, slated as the Senate's next major business, is the subject of renewed huddles between the forces of Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) and the Eisenhower administration. No compromise looms yet.

Eisenhower says again he doesn't like it. Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) proposes a solution in the form of a resolution, which would not have as strong an effect as a constitutional amendment. But Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), renewing efforts for a compromise settlement, says legislation probably would not achieve what most Bricker supporters want.

Korea treaty—Eisenhower asks Senate approval of a mutual defense treaty with South Korea. Administration leaders support it in hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Approval seems certain.

West Point of the air—House Armed Services Committee votes 26-0 for a separate academy for the Air Force, at an initial cost of 26 million dollars. The Air Force is to say where the school will be built.

Methodist Church Leader To Direct Epworth Retreat

Rev. Clare Milton Ingham, director of youth work for the Inter-Board Council of the Ohio Conference, Methodist Church, will be in Marion Sunday to conduct the Epworth Methodist Church's Youth Division mid-year retreat.

At the worship hour at 10:30 Minister's Day will be observed. This is a combined recognition of Recruitment Day in which emphasis is placed on the suggestion of young men considering the calling of the ministry as a career and Veterans Day honoring these men who are retired from the pastorate.

At 12:15 p.m. there will be a covered dish dinner in the church's Fellowship Hall, and a program will be carried out along the lines of a "television" production. Group singing will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. George Lane.

Rev Ingham, in line with the thought of the ideal youth program, will talk on "The General Youth Program of the Church at Large." Panel discussion will be directed by Robert Bush, the pastor, Rev. W. C. Eyster, and other adult leaders of the three groups of junior high school, high school age, and older young people. Parents will take part also.

Assembly at 3 o'clock for the young people to listen to the Youth Forum radio broadcast over Station WMRN, will be followed by time for the groups to plan their programs of activities and meetings for the next five months.

Bricker Names Appointments To Academies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) said today his principal appointments to the Naval Academy at Annapolis for 1954 are Edward K. Greenewald 17, Worthington, and Philip A. Shook 18, 275 N. Pears Ave., Lima.

To the military academy at West Point, Bricker named Milton L. Miller, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. Miller, Rt. 1, Vickery, and Kenneth H. Montgomery, 19. Montgomery's guardian is Floyd Hartpence of Xenia.

Alternate appointments included:

Naval Academy — Alternate to Greenewald: Ernest T. Young, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Young, Rt. 1, Hanover.

Dr. Keever Addresses PTA at Green Camp

GREEN CAMP — A talk by Dr. Kenneth J. Keever, head of the polio recovery center at Magnetic Springs, highlighted the January meeting of the Green Camp PTA. Dr. Keever was introduced by Mrs. Mildred Ruth, PTA health chairman.

Devotions were led by Rev. J. W. Spears, Methodist pastor. The group voted a contribution to the March of Dimes. Arrangements for "fun nite" were discussed. Miss Mildred Little's third grade received the room award for having the largest percentage of parents present. Mrs. Wanda Ault and Mrs. Loma Mills served on the social committee.

BAND MOTHERS MEET

The Green Camp Band Mothers Club decided to meet the second Monday of each month at 7 p.m. Their meeting will precede the PTA meeting. The group decided to sponsor a home-made candy sale for Valentine day. Members of the band will solicit subscriptions to a household magazine. Proceeds will be applied to the purchase of band uniforms.

New Tax Developments Mean Much to Business

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Business may shift its ways of raising money as a result of two tax developments. They make the public look better than the banker to business—and should make business look better to the public.

One tax development is the move toward easing up on the double tax tion of business earnings and dividends. The stockholders — the owners of business—would find the returns of their ownership sweeter.

The other is the death of the excess profit tax the first of this year. That tax often made it more profitable for business to go into debt when it needed money to expand than to raise the money by increasing public ownership through the sale of more stock—especially since some present stockholders might object to "watering down" their equity in the business.

Stock traders are apparently feeling more optimistic about the prospects for sales of stocks and for the continuation of high dividend payments to shareholders.

Dividend payments by corporations last year came to around 9½ billion dollars. About 3½ billion of that went right on through the stockholders' fingers and into the U.S. Treasury. Under the proposal of the House Ways and Means Committee, by 1956 the stockholders would be retaining another billion dollars for themselves, assuming that dividend payments hold at the 1953 level.

This would make stock owning look a lot brighter to the public, brokerage firms here feel. And they look for much better chances for placing more common stocks in the hands of the American public.

The "double taxation" charge arises this way: First, the earnings of the corporation are subject to an income tax, at present 52 per cent; the second, that part of the earnings which is passed along to the owners of the corporation in the form of a dividend is subject to the individual income tax.

The House group proposes to lift gradually some of this latter burden, so that the stockholder won't have to pay income tax on all of the money he gets as a dividend.

At the business end of the deal, investment bankers figure there will be (if the proposal passes Congress) a shift in management's financial thinking. They believe there will henceforth be less emphasis on going into debt when new money is needed by business.

Experiment in Freedom

There has emerged from President Eisenhower's messages to the second session of the 83rd Congress a new version of executive responsibility.

Perhap it would be spoken of more accurately as a revived version of responsibility.

Instead of calculating political effects, as has been the recent presidential fashion, President Eisenhower is calculating effects on national welfare.

He is making an assumption no professional politician could make without being untrue to his trade — that if he makes a proper recommendation it will win support eventually even though it be politically unpopular in the short run.

He has made this assumption in his recommendations for agriculture. There isn't a vote in a carload of his ideas, though there would be the beginning of a solution to the problem of surpluses.

In his labor message he wheedled neither the votes of union bosses nor management. Instead, he directed his logic to the majority of his fellow citizens who are neither one nor the other.

His social security recommendations were almost the opposite of what would be expected from a politician who was building popularity.

But like his other recommendations, they represented what the President believes is best under the circumstances.

Eisenhower is not the first chief executive to try this daring experiment in freedom. He is not the first president to take a position midway between opposing factions and challenge the citizenry to make a choice.

He is not the first president to put the national welfare above votes. But he is the first in recent years. There has been a revival of White House responsibility for the long-term welfare of the United States instead of the welfare of an individual politician or a political party.

As Common as Ever

The doctor who told his sneezing, sniffling, eye-watering patient that the only way he could be cured was to get pneumonia, wasn't spoofing.

The common cold continues to be the scourge of mankind while some of the afflictions which once called for rallying the near relatives now can be routed with a few broadsides of miracle drugs.

Whatever effects the cold-routers which have been put on the market the last few years may be having are neither visible nor audible. Red noses and watery eyes loom up on every hand. Sniffling and snuffling are in competition with the wrap-around sound effects in the movie theaters.

The common cold is as common as ever. Its victims are as soggy, sodden, depressed, reddened and inwardly furious. In all sight and sound effects they are as disagreeable to see and hear as they ever were.

To be sure, they have added numerous nostrums. They have little appliances, little powders, pills, little bottles of medicine, along with the traditional salves, libations, compresses and kill-or-cure routines that are matched only by the ways for dealing with poison ivy.

Never was it so evident that a well-cared-for cold lasts two weeks, whereas one that's neglected will dry up and blow away—or be blown away—in a mere fortnight.

66,500,000 in Social Security

President Eisenhower's formula for executive leadership has been used on his social-security recommendations.

He has not spelled out for Congress every detail of what it should and could do to bring the Social Security Act up to date. But he has laid down basic principles.

Old-age benefits should be broadened to cover every citizen who can qualify for them. This might mean adding coverage for as many as 10,000,000 citizens not now covered.

The benefits should be collected by beneficiaries as a privilege of citizenship, not as a penalty for old age. There should be a change in present restrictions on the earning power of persons who have reached 65.

The old-age tax which qualifies a beneficiary for payments should be collected on a broader base than the $3,600 specified in the original Social Security Act passed in 1935. President Eisenhower suggests this might be $4,200.

The rate at which the tax is collected should be permitted to stay at 2 per cent, as it has been since the first of the year.

No program put into motion by the federal government has been less understood than social security. Approximately 66,500,000 persons were insured under the old-age and survivors program, including beneficiaries, at the end of 1953. About four out of five workers were covered.

About 36,200,000 out of 55,400,000 nonfarm workers were covered by unemployment insurance, which is administered by the states with federal aid. Employment taxes to pay current and future benefits to persons over 65, to widows, survivors, the unemployed and the disabled are being collected at a rate of well over five billion dollars a year, a major item in federal revenue.

Four-Party System

By David Lawrence

Conservatives-Liberals Real Majority in Congress

Whether one likes it or not, the most significant fact about the present session of Congress is that it is governed not by a two-party but by a "four-party system."

Only by accepting that piece of realism can one understand what is going to happen to the multifarious recommendations in President Eisenhower's several messages.

For the last few weeks now the country has been told in various news dispatches that the Republicans have 47 members of the Senate and the Democrats have 48 and that one former Republican now votes "independent."

An impression is created that the two political parties are about even up and also that inside the Republican party there is a big split. Little has been said about the fact that five Democrats promised Sen. Taft that, if any votes were needed by the Republicans to retain control of the Senate organization, those five would absent themselves and let the Republican setup prevail. That group feels the same today.

THE TRUTH is there are about 9 Democrats in the Senate who cannot be counted upon to hew to the party line on legislation and there are about five constant Republican dissenters. Even these figures are meaningless. The important question is whether there is a majority for each of the President's proposals.

Any survey made today must necessarily concede that the major part of the President's program will be adopted by Congress in some form and that, if the remainder comes to a vote, it will also be approved with the changes that are required in order to attain majority support.

The names "Republican" and "Democrat" in Congress are meaningless except for political fireworks and campaign purposes or for the procedural side of the two houses of Congress. So far as law-making is concerned, there are four separate blocs or parties and the labels by which they may be described are by no means conceded to be accurate.

THERE IS in the Congress a small conservative group — not over ten per cent. The real majority is a "conservative liberal" group as differentiated from a radical group.

The "conservative liberals" comprise at least 9 to 20 Democrats and more than 40 Republicans. The "radical liberals" are to be found in the Democratic party, though it might be that one or two Republicans would join that bloc on certain issues. The "radical liberals" cannot command 20 votes out of the 96 on any really extreme issue.

The Republican party has been described by a witty Democrat in Congress as being as liberal at least as the conservative wing of the liberal party, which to him is the Democratic party. Whichever way the various pieces of legislation are classified, it is obvious that anyone who tried to make a "liberal" or "radical" or conservative" category out of such a tangled question as the farm problem would wind up with no agreement on terminology from any quarter.

The fact is that in this session of Congress the farm problem, like the tariff problem of old, has become a local issue. If you pick out the state and its products, you can tell how the delegation will ine up, irrespective of the party label. The same still holds true of the tariff.

ALSO ON labor-law amendments, it is not always possible to classify members of Congress by any ideological terms. Certain amendments, such as a compulsory "closed shop" for all industries, will not be voted for except by a small minority of radicals.

Foreign policy, party lines have always broken down. Today there are virtually no "isolationists" in the sense in which the term was used in the .20's. Almost everyone wants the fighting at the outbreak of war kept as far from these shores as possible.

Almost everyone favors some form of international cooperation. Nobody wants to withdarw all aid and all troops from all parts of the world and crawl into a shell, though the extremists who want American taxpayers to bleed while vast funds are wasted abroad often criticize those who disagree with them and employ smearing epithets like "isolationist."

The four-party system prevails primarily on domestic issues. The Democrats who are "conservative liberals" believe in maintaining individual initiative and enterprise as against government ownership and the "welfare state" — the characteristic theme of the "radical liberal," along with a tendency to put the government in control of everything.

PRESIDENT Eisenhower's legislative program has been called a "middle of the road" program. If by this is meant a series of compromises between extremes, it is an incorrect designation.

What the President has done is to lend the weight of his office to certain positions which he thinks are desirable and sound whether they come from the left side or the right side. That's not really a "middle of the road" philosophy. It's a recognition of fundamental principles of fairness and equity. It disregards the origin of the project and concerns itself with the merits.

That's why Mr. Eisenhower will get a working majority, which will be drawn from the "conservative liberals" on the Democratic side and their brethren of similar view on the Republican side.

No single majority on one issue will resemble the line-up on another issue. This is not new — not a single major piece of legislation has been adopted by Congress in nearly fifteen years in which there has been a strict party vote on both sides. That's the "four-party" system.

Dear Nephew: As a part - time addict of all the semi - respectable vices, I am fascinated by the thing happening to cigaret smokers.

I have smoked cigarets. I also have smoked cigars, pipes and have chewed tobacco in some of its more succulent forms.

I have tasted everything in the form of beverages that has come my way, and I must say in this regard that I have been advantageously situated. I even have eaten cucumbers and rutabagas in my earnest attempts to sample everything that has been placed on this good earth for the use of its inhabitants.

The rutabagas made me sick at my stomach; something about the smell which upset me even before I had them in my mouth. The cucumbers did not make me sick while I ate them but after I had finished eating them. I am not constructed to digest cucumbers.

There are many other things I am not constructed to handle. One of them is chocolate candy, which lays me low if I eat more than a few pieces of it. Another is green peppers, which have somewhat the same effect on me as cucumbers.

I despise the taste of bourbon whisky, though I do not mind the taste of scotch whisky. I do not like baking powder biscuits but am fond of biscuits raised with yeast. Each of us has his individual tastes, tolerances, capacities and so on. We are not all cut from the same pattern.

But for reasons which will appear to be absurd one of these days a great many of us have assumed at one time or another that everybody could use tobacco in any or all of its forms without any bad consequences.

It now has downed on many of these users that this was too big an assumption; that tobacco should be regarded the same as all other things. No one in his right mind would satiate himself with peanuts, year in and year out.

Yet so firmly fixed was the idea that tobacco was in a class by itself that millions of people who started to use it for what it might be worth as something placed on earth for men's enjoyment abused it, instead.

They became as intemperate in their relationship with tobacco as other men have been in other circumstances with alcohol, narcotics, betel nuts, hashish and also popcorn, hamburgers, soda pop and green apples.

It was inevitable they would learn sometime that tobacco was not in a class by itself — that it, too, could be abused. It appears to me that's what is happening now.

Many people who had gone haywire are repenting of their intemperance. Other people who should have tried tobacco, then switched to something they could handle more safely, are making belated decisions to quit pressing their luck.

Tobacco is going to find a justifiable place in our scheme of things. The era of wild expansion of its use which began right after World War I is over. I think the tobacco industry should be thankful, because the thing had to settle down sometime.

I look forward to the time when most tobacco users will be moderate enough so they can quit worrying about the consequences of being immoderate.

Your aunt sends her regards, which you may mingle with mine for distribution among all members of the family.

Highway Program Heads for Controversy

By James Free

Scant notice has been taken around the country of one of President Eisenhower's new public-works proposals: "An expanded highway program."

It is certain to get wide attention soon. For it raises controversial questions that Congress must resolve in the next few weeks. Here is how the President put it in his state of the union speech:

"To protect the vital interest of every citizen in a safe and adequate highway system, the federal government is continuing its central role in the federal-aid highway program. So that maximum progress can be made to overcome present inadequacies in the interstate highway system, we must continue the federal gasoline tax at two cents per gallon.

THIS WILL require cancellation of the one-half-cent decrease which overwise will become effective April 1 and will maintain revenues so that an expanded highway program can be undertaken."

At least one member of Congress took President's words on this subject in deadly earnest. Rep. Mack introduced a bill a few days later to increase by 50 per cent the federal share of highway funds to be matched by the states —starting in the next fiscal year.

Moreoverr, Mack insists that this 50 per cent increase will not cost the taxpayers anything extra, if the government will actually use all its gasoline and diesel oil tax collections on highways. He estimates that his bill would add about $267,500,000 to the federal fund allocated for highway and bridge construction, bringing the total in the year beginning July 1, 1954, to $8[illegible],500,000. This, he points out, is less than the 867 million dollars collected last year in federal gasoline and diesel oil taxes.

WHERE MACK runs into trouble, though, is that the esident and other administration leaders probably have been counting on using those extra gasoline and diesel tax collections for general government operations. If this is not done, the tax revenue would have to be obtained from other sources, or be lost from the funds available for general purposes.

Mack contends, as others have done before him, that it is unfair to motorists and truck operators who pay the gasoline and diesel tax for this tax to be used for anything other than upkeep and building of highways.

This is only one of the hot issues that Mack's bill will raise.

It could also bring to a head in Congress an argument raised by Gov. Albert Driscoll of New Jersey at governors' conferences. He claims the federal government ought to abandon its gasoline and diesel taxes altogether, and leave those forms of revenue to the states. This is the position of the American Farm Bureau Federation, too.

There are some in Congress who think that President Eisenhower came out for continuing the full two-cents-a-gallon federal gasoline tax more to put a stop to the Driscoll proposal than to encourage the kind of suggestion made by Mack.

They feel that the President wants to keep this form of federal tax, and perhaps use more of it for highway building — but not to the extent urged by Mack.

In preparing to introduce his bill, Mack ran across something that startled him a bit. He asked the Library of Congress's legislative reference service to check on whether other state of the union messages in modern times have included a recommendation for an expanded highway system.

The answer came back: Neither Franklin D. Roosevelt nor Harry S. Truman made it a part of their state of the union speeches (although they may have done so in special messages at other times). Only two such references were found in modern day "state" messages. They were by President Calvin Coolidge on Dec. 6, 1923, and by President Herbert Hoover on Dec. 3, 1929. In those years, Congress met in December in so-called lame ducks sessions, for presidential inaugurations were not held until early March.

Whatever happens to Mack's bill, it promises to stir an argument of great interest to every automobile and truck driver in the nation.

Nine Decades of Heart Throbs

By MARK DANA

It was just 90 years ago this month that Stephen Collins Foster died, a charity patient in a New York hospital, after a brief and unhappy and frustrated life.

Almost before one could have time to wander way down upon the Suwanee River, the centennial of his passing will be here, and learned treatises on the Foster legend will be forthcoming.

Meanwhile, to be sure, middle-aged and graying people will still pay tribute more or less tunefully to Jeanie's light brown hair, urge Susanna not to cry, and push down throatlumps while longing vicariously for old plantations and old folks at a spirit-fabricated home.

It undoubtedly is true, as literary aesthetes, musical classicists and patriotic purists contend, that the folk songs of Stephen Foster do not represent America, and have nothing like the all-purpose all-class sentimentality of most foreign folk songs.

Foster wrote with his heart for other hearts; he was not restricted by rules of verbal or melodic erudition. Even so, he was many intelligence-stanza ahead of the juke-box monstrosities blaring today, some of them earning more royalties for their authors in one day than Foster got in his lifetime. Children—and adults who have children's sentiments - still lament the departure of Nellie Gray and the cold-ground burial of Massa, the silencing of Uncle Ned's fiddle, the vanishing of dusky Joe's cotton fields.

Sophisticates and omniscient persons, say in the 14-18 age bracket, find that Collins' homely homilies do not "send" them, but it takes a lot to move some people.

It's likely that Foster, given a choice, would have preferred that his simple songs about lowly people would be ignored by the intellectuals astute in counterpoint and cerebral poesy, if others regretting that "gone are the days when my heart was young and gay" could sing his songs, feel a quickening, and then "weep no more."

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

What? Never!

Harry Truman is doing pretty well for an unemployed man. He just got $25,000, or a substantial part thereof, for telling a TV audience that he slept well!

"I never took a sleeping pill in my life," he declared via the Ford Foundation in response to a question whether the heavy cares of the White House had ever caused a sleepless night.

Never has a politician made an admission which could cost him more support. While Harry was sleeping so well all those years in Washington, millions of other folks were tossing and turning in their beds. They are pretty sore. Certainly they had a right to assume he was restless, too.

Few are the American voters who do not resent any man's boast that he has never had to count sheep. Truman's TV statement has made them resentful, full of envy and a little skeptical.

A fellow who can't sleep well without a pill now and then can never feel affection for a man who has never had the need for one.

It was comforting to countless Americans through those years of crisis and headaches to feel that the White House, too, was too worried to sleep soundly.

People liked to think that Harry, like everybody else, punched the pillows, tugged at the sheets, counted lambkins and made a trip now and then to the medicine cabinet. We would have bet all the tea in China that Harry had taken a sleeping pill on these occasions:

1. During the Hiss trial.
2. The night before Margaret's first TV show.
3. The night after Gen. MacArthur's address to Congress.
4. The night before the 1952 election returns.
5. The night of the returns.
6. Any night in which he had gone to bed thinking of Joe McCarthy.

The news that in his 69 years he never had the slightest difficulty sleeping may have a historic consequence. "I never took a sleeping pill in my life," can become as attached to Truman in the history books as Washington's "I did it with my little hatchet." (Washington never told a lie. Lincoln never left a log unsplit. Cleveland never passed up a fishing trip. Truman never took a pill.)

He can be best known to future generations as "No Pill" Truman. Just as homes and inns are pointed out as the places where George Washington once slept, there may come a day when old houses may bear a tabled: "Here Harry S. Truman, President of the United States, Scorned Insomnia."

There may even be a bed in which Truman had no trouble passing out in three or four minutes. (Now we know what that middle initial "S" is for.)

Sheep counting, we take it, is for snollygosters. "No matter how troubled, I forget everything when I go to bed," he said, in one of the highest priced utterances on sleep in history. Well, it made us so jealous we haven't had a good night's sleep since.

President Eisenhower hasn't done too well, either. (But he should realize that Truman always had a certain advantage — not being a golfer, he never had to lie in bed wide-awake and go over every hole of that bad round.)

We know a Democrat who is still sore because Harry Truman's TV appearance came on between Ollie the Dragon and Zoo Parade.

Robert Anderson, whose "Tea and Sympathy" will make him rich, wrote a score of plays before getting one accepted. . . .got his early training in Harvard drama shop.

We think that there would be just as good a chance for agreement with Russia if all those conferences were held on a ski slide.

The National Motorboat Show, for years held in Grant Central Palace — the very heart of Gotham — opens this week in Kingsbridge Armory, away up so far north around Pelham Parkway that visitors should carry compasses, charts and maine glasses. We never dreamed a yacht show could drift that far.

Increase Noted In State Sales Tax Collection

Gain of 8.1 Per Cent In Six-Month Figures Reported for County

Sales tax collections for the last six months of 1953 in Marion County totalled $598,844, an increase of 8.1 per cent over the $554,138 total for the same period in the previous year.

Sales tax collection in the state for the last six months of 1953 passed the one hundred million dollar mark to set a new record, Roger W. Tracy, state treasurer, reports. Comparing collections of $104,482,186 for the last half of 1953 with $95,039,407 for the same span in 1952, he notes a gain of 9.9 per cent.

Pike County Leads

Booming with the atomic energy project, Pike County again led the state with a gain of 111.9 per cent. The neighboring counties of Scioto, Adams, Ross, Jackson and Highland also apparently were influenced by these activities.

Motor vehicles led the list of industry classifications registering gains. Comparing $20,595,951 for the last six months of 1953 with $16,960,731 for the same span of 1952, a gain of 21.4 per cent was shown for this category.

In the half year's tabulations compiled by Tracy, other classifications showing sales tax collection gains were building materials 10.4 per cent, hardware 12.4 per cent and department store dry goods 6 per cent.

While women's apparel gained 6.8 per cent, men's apparel lost 1.5 per cent.

The grand total for the calendar year of 1953 reached $198,184,581 in the state. This figure may be compared with 1952's grand total of $177,914,759, for a gain of 11.3 per cent.

Leveling Off Noted

Tracy noted, however, that a leveling off of revenues from sales tax collections has set in. While the per cent of gain for the first six monhs of 1953 compared with the same period of 1952 was 13 per cent, this may be compared with the 9.9 per cent gain over 1952 registered for the last six months of 1953.

Sales of prepaid tax receipts for the week ending Dec. 31, 1953 took a considerable drop in Marion and surrounding counties in comparison with the same period in 1952. In Marion County sales amounted to $37,924 for the 1953 period, while for the previous year's period they were $57,552.

For surrounding counties figures for the 1953 period, with corresponding 1952 period figures in parentheses, are as follows: Crawford, $33,220 ($40,081); Delaware, $17,213 ($26,739); Hardin, $14,548 ($19,213); Morrow, $6,011 ($8,831); Union, $12,904 ($14,160); and Wyandot, $15,592 ($19,390.

Club Founder Dies

Prexies in Top Performance but Lose to Fremont

Prospect Upset by LaRue in Marion County League Action

Slow Second Period, Loss Of Top Rebounder Costly

By JOHN SHORT

Harding High School's basketball team turned in its top performance, as good a job as will be seen this year at the Prexy gym, last night but fell before a sharp-shooting Fremont Ross squad 72-63.

A slow second period, plus the loss of one of their two top performers in the Buckeye League contest, cost the Presidents the verdict.

Grab Early Lead

The Prexies jumped into a 26-13 lead in the first period and were on their way to an upset of the undefeated Giants of Coach Al Ziemke. After hitting on 67 per cent of their shots from the field in the opening period and building up a comfortable working margin, the Harding attack let down in the second stanza and Fremont managed to knot the score, only to drop behind 32-21 at the half.

After fighting the heavily - favored Giants on even terms and ending the third period with a 46-46 score, the Prexies took command early in the final frame. The Harding attack faltered, however, when Dave Schnelker left the game via the foul route after two minutes and 28 seconds had elapsed. From that point, the Giants controlled the boards and the outcome was inevitable.

The visitors scored first when Ted Houghtaling dumped in a one-hand push shot from the corner. A jump shot by Schnelker and a set shot by Ron Conroy gave Harding a lead it refused to surrender for most of the game. Conroy dropped in nine and Bob Hamor hit for six to lead the local squad to its first period bulge.

Dean Doren began making himself known to the Prexies in the second quarter with a pair of quick goals on rebounds. When the Harding defenders managed to stop him Tom Miller took over. The Giants then settled on one plan of attack. That was to get the ball in to Miller and let him bat it into the nets. It worked and Miller ended the period with eight points as he led his mates back into the game. The Prexies managed to score only twice from the field as Conroy hit on two attempts and added one from the charity line and Schnelker hit once from the foul maker.

Score Tied

Miller knotted the count at 32-all with less than 15 seconds gone in the half. Fremont managed to gain the lead on a jump shot by Houghtaling with four and a half minutes to go but lost it soon after when Bibler hit for a pair of quick goals and Phil Carroll connected from the corner to boost the score to 46-42 in favor of Harding before Dick Baron and Harry Tiller hit from the field and Jim Houghtaling added once from the foul line to tie the score.

Early in the fourth period, the Prexies spurted to a 55-51 lead when Schnelker began hauling in rebounds. With him controlling the boards, Conroy, Bibler and Don Smith, with fast break down the floor, shoved Coach Jim Lawler's crew in front. When Schnelker left, however, the Prexies' control of the boards was gone and that was it. He left with Harding ahead 57-52 and before the Giants were slowed Harding had dropped behind 64-58.

The Prexies after dropping from their phenomenal performance of the first period, connected on 26 of 72 field goal attempts for a commendable 36 per cent average. Conroy, with 24 points, led the attack and hit on 11 of 24 attempts from the field. Hamor ended the game with five of seven attempts. In addition to Conroy's 24, Hamor potted 12 points for the Prexies and Smith finished with nine. Miller was high for Fremont with 23. Tiller had 13 and Doren finished with 11.

Reserves Win

The Harding reserves rushed to a 47-37 win over the future Giant cagers. The Vice Presidents grabbed an 11-7 lead in the first period but left the floor at the half with an 18-18 deadlock. The winners pushed in 16 points during the third period to the losers' 8 to clinch the outcome.

Lowell Carlisle with 12 points was the big gun in the Vice Presidents attack. Mike Shields and Chet King each added eight. Harris led Fremont with 15.

Harding's new Alma Mater song was introduced during the halftime intermission of the varsity game. The song, to replace, the former "Hail to Harding High," was written by Miss Lucille Foreman, a member of the Harding faculty, with music by Richard Myers, a Harding graduate.

2 of Leading Teams Suffer First Setback

By RIP WATSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Kentucky, Duquesne and Western Kentucky, the nation's last unbeaten major college basketball teams, had fair warning today: It takes more than a perfect record to crack a tough defense.

Holy Cross and George Washington learned that fact to their sorrow last night as both went down to their first defeats of the season, Holy Cross bowing to Notre Dame 83-61 and George Washington to Maryland 68-61.

The story was the same in both cases: too much defense. With Togo Palazzi missing 13 field goal attempts in the first half, Holy Cross found itself on the short end of a 36-23 score. A collapsing defense thoroughly shackled Palazzi and his mates, who were ranked sixth in the country and had won 11 in a row.

George Washington's streak stopped at 11 when the previously high-scoring Colonials couldn't solve Maryland's defense. George Washington, ranked seventh, trailed by 14-9 after 10 minutes and never got started after that.

Kentucky, No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll, should improve their 10-0 record against Tulane tonight. But neither Duquesne nor Western Kentucky needed any kind of warning about their opponents.

Duquesne plays Niagara at the Upstate New York school, remembering their tight squeeze over Niagara in the Madison Square Garden Holiday Festival and also the Purple Eagles' reputaion for being tough on their home court. Western Kentucky plays Eastern Kentucky, a bitter cross-state rival that upset the favored Hilltoppers exactly a year ago tomorrow. Second-ranked Duquesne has won 14, fifth-ranked Western Kentucky 15.

At least two other members of the top ten face trouble tonight. Indiana, No. 3, plays a return game at Wisconsin, a team the Hoosiers nipped by 70-67 at Indiana for one of their four Big Conference successes without defeat. Minnesota, No. 10, can't afford to let down against Iowa's young team, which has a 3-0 Big 10 mark against lesser opposition.

Oklahoma A&M, No. 4, visits Tulsa for a Missouri Valley game, eighth-ranked Oklahoma City is host to Murray State of Kentucky and ninth-ranked Duke is idle.

Texas clicked on 65 per cent of its shots in the second half to whip Rice 74-66, giving the Longhorns a front-running 4-0 mark in the Southwest Conference.

California whipped Stanford 83-68 to make its record 3-0 in the southern division of the Pacific Coast League, while Oregon and Oregon State moved ahead in the northern division. Oregon beat Washington State 75-73 and Oregon State beat Washington 61-49. Seattle, 14th ranking nationally, turned back St. Mary's (Calif.) 73-60 and Southern California edged UCLA 68-65.

Princeton (1-2 in the Ivy League) walloped Brown (1-4) 106-66, Montana upset Utah 76-56 to win its first Skyline Conference game and Bevo Francis popped in 61 points in Rio Grande's 107-77 victory over Alliance.

2 DIE AT GAME

BOSTON (AP)—Two men at the Notre Dame-Holy Cross basketball game at Boston Garden last night collapsed and died within seven minutes of each other. They were identified as Joseph C. Casey, 53, of Taunton and Harry Jones, 52, of Worcester.

Massillon Begins Search For Successor to Mather

By FRITZ HOWELL

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)—Who gets the job at Massillon?

That was the big question today as "Touchdown, U.S.A." started its search for a new football coach to succed Charles V. (Chuck) Mather. Chuck was named yesterday head coach at the University of Kansas, where he assumes his new duties Jan. 25.

His departure leaves vacant Ohio's No. 1 scholastic coaching job, and also a challenge for his successor. In 6 years at Massillon, Mather won 57 of 60 games, took the state championship 6 straight times, and was named Coach of the Year 3 times.

One vacancy left by Mather's promotion is filled automatically. George Vlerebome of Zanesville moves in as president of the Ohio High School Football Coaches Assn., jumping a notch from the vice presidency.

Kansas offered Mather a free hand in picking his assistants, although the Lawrence authorities said they'd like to keep their freshman mentor.

And Mather, making his first sortie into the collegiate field, said he'd offer jobs at Kansas to each of his five assistants at Massillon. Just how many might go along was not certain, but there was speculation that Carl (Ducky) Schroeder, his right-hand man and secretary-treasurer of the coaches association, might make the move.

Meanwhile Massillon didn't have too much time to line up a new man. The Tigers always indulge in spring practice, starting the latter part of March, and the new coach will need time to line up a staff and study his talent.

Mather moved to Massillon from Hamilton, and oddly enough another Chuck from Hamilton was the first coach injected into the current speculation about a successor.

That would be Chuck Thackara, one of the most dynamic mentors in the southern sector. In 1951 Thackara coached the Southern All-Stars to a 20-6 victory over the north in the annual North-South game at Middletown, most decisive of the Rebel victories. Last season, after tying Massillon 6-6 and losing 12-0 to the Tigers in a couple of spring practice tilts, Thackara's Big Blue team came up with one of the season's top surprises by beating Warren's Panthers 19-0.

Thackara's lone losing season at Hamilton came a couple of years ago when he ousted practically his entire first team for breaking training after a game and finished the campaign with his second and third stringers.

Others mentioned included Seraph Pope of Lima Central, Ray Hoyman of Steubenville, Bob Brownson of Portsmouth (1953 Coach of the Year), Mal Mackey of Fremont, Tom Watson of Urbana, and Bill Kidd of New Philadelphia whose Quakers were unbeaten in 10 games and allowed only one touchdown—that on an intercepted pass.

Writers Name Campanella as Player of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Campanella, slugging catcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was named "player of the year" by the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America today. He will receive the Sid Mercer Memorial Award, emblematic of that distinction, at the writers' dinner on Jan. 31.

This is the third major honor recently bestowed on Campanella, whose 1953 performance was the greatest by any catcher in big league history. He was named to the major league all-star team by the Baseball Writers' Assn. and he won the National League's most valuable player award for the second time in three years.

Campanella, in his 32nd year, shattered three all-time marks for catchers last season. His 41 homers, the most ever hit by a Dodger righthander, topped Gabby Hartnett's 37. His 142 runs batted in topped Bill Dickey's 133 and his 807 putouts broke Ossie Schreckengost's mark of 785 which had stood since 1905. He posted a .312 batting average and scored 103 runs.

The sturdy Negro receiver currently is hospitalized, after undergoing a minor operation, the nature of which was undisclosed.

Barons To Play Today, Sunday

Marion's Barons are faced with another busy weekend in their drive toward the top of the International Hockey League. The Barons will be at Fort Wayne tonight, meeting their jinx team.

The Marion club has managed only one win thus far this season over the Komets.

Sunday afternoon, the Barons return to their home ice at the Coliseum and will meet the last-place Milwaukee Chiefs. Game time will be 3 p.m.

Upper Sandusky Drops First NOL Engagement

UPPER SANDUSKY — The Upper Sandusky Rams dropped their opening game in the Northern Ohio League here last night when Bellevue notched a 66-44 win.

The winners raced ahead 17-7 in the opening period and were never headed. Dave McClain dunked in 18 points to lead the Rams but Bellevue's Strayer took top honors with 21. Lataey added 19 for the winners and Verne Eisenhauer netted 11.

The loss gave the Rams a record of three wins and five losses while Bellevue has won seven and dropped one. The Bellevue reserves notched a 33-30 win.

Morral Gains Undisputed Lead With Seventh Victory

The big news in Marion County basketball circles today was LaRue's upset win over Prospect's league-leading Bulldogs Friday night.

Playing on its home floor, LaRue handed Prospect its initial loss in Marion County league play and put daylight between the Bulldogs and Mcrral.

Morral, shoving in 100 points against Martel, gained its seventh straight league victory to take over undisputed leadership of top spot in the county race. The Wildcats and Prospect went into last night's action tied for the league with perfect 6-0 marks.

Elsewhere, scoring was at a minimum. Meeker upset Claridon—handing the Hornets their second loop loss — in a 39-36 tilt while Waldo was dumping Caledonia 47-40 and New Bloomington was beating Green Camp 46-43.

Thus with three sessions remaining, Morral is atop the county league standings with a 7-0 mark with Prospect, 6-1, second and Claridon and LaRue, both with 5-2, tied for third spot. Next come Waldo and Meeker, who are both 4-3 in county league action.

LaRue's twice-beaten Indians deadened Prospect's county league title hopes by upsetting the up-to-then co-leaders 63-57 on the home floor.

It was the first loss in league play for Coach Bob Kelly's crew after six straight wins. Prospect's loss left Morral atop the county league standings with a 7-0 rating.

The winners opened an 18-10 lead in the first quarter and increased their margin to 38-26 at halftime, then staved off Prospect's last half surge.

Prospect managed to knot the count at 50-50 early in the final quarter. But for that, LaRue led the entire route. It was 48-42 in LaRue's favor at the three-quarter mark.

Each team lost a man via the foul route. Prospect was hurt when its scoring ace Bob Rodgers fouled out early in the final frame. LaRue's defensive work, however, had limited him to 10 points. Bob Hughes of LaRue contacted his fifth personal midway in the fourth quarter.

Gene Cooper, Raymond Hosey and Larry Hickman cooperated to shove in 51 of LaRue's final total. Cooper dumped in 18 while Hosey added 17 and Hickman came in with 16. Ronald Woods was the big gun for Prospect, getting 15 points. Matthews and Krawczyk each contributed 11.

Prospect actually outhit LaRue from the field — by one field goal — but the winners dumped in 15 foul shots to Prospect's seven for the margin of victory. Prospect took the reserve clash 47-40 as Roger Landon dropped in 15 points, Bruce Emery 13 and Byrd 12. Allen Culver notched 13 for LaRue.

Morral's league-leading Wildcats hit the century mark in drubbing last-place Martel 100-30. A foul shot by Jim Shifflet with less than 10 seconds to go gave Morral its 100th point.

It marked the highest offensive output in county league play this year. Meeker reached 97 on the winless Martel squad while LaRue banged in 94 points.

All five Morral starters hit in double figures, with Clair Hensel leading the way with 21 points. John Craycraft came in with 17, Shifflet and Junior Bell with 16 apiece, and Ted Murphy with 15.

All missed the third quarter when Coach Vern Hensel yanked his starting five and shoved reserves into the fray, clearing the bench. The starters went back in with only seconds left in the third quarter and Morral holding a 71-24 advantage.

Martel was limited to but seven field goals but added 16 points from the foul line. Barden was the big gun for the losers with 13 points.

In the preliminary reserve match, Morral's futures rolled to their seventh straight county league win, 55-29. Bob Williams notched 20 points for the winners while Leathem got 10 for Martel.

Waldo rallied in the last half to dump Caledonia 47-40 on its hardwood.

Unable to hit during the first half when they trailed 23-18, the Waldo cagers came back to go around the losers in the third period and kept on moving for the win.

The winners played possession ball during the final five minutes to protect their slender lead which they increased when Caledonia committed fouls in attempting to gain possession of the ball. Waldo sunk eight of 10 attempts from the charity line during the final stanza to help it along to victory.

Waldo actually won the game from the foul line where it registered 19 points to Caledonia's 12. The losers were charged with 21 fouls, Waldo with only 12.

Henry dumped in 16 points to pace the Waldo attack. Don Yake added 10 and Klingel shoved in nine. For the losers, Hunt had 12 with Dickerson next in line with seven, all on foul shots.

Caledonia won the reserve match 40-37 as Phillips tallied 12 and Gist eight. Stan Yake's 11 and Bradford Brady's 10 were tops for the losers. In a junior high clash, Waldo was victorious 29-27 in overtime.

—:—

New Bloomington came from behind to nudge Green Camp 46-43 for its third county league victory in seven starts.

Spoiling Green Camp's Homecoming observance, the visiting New Bloomington squad poured in 17 points in the final frame to ease past the losers in a hard-fought game.

Mt. Gilead Crew Sinks Marengo

MT. GILEAD — After outscoring Marengo 20-2 in the first quarter, Mt. Gilead kept up a fast pace throughout the entire game to post an emphatic 72-35 victory on its own court last night.

Eleven Indians broke into the scoring column, Ted Moody topping the list with 17. For Marengo Jim Price with 10 was the only player to score in double figures.

The Mt. Gilead reserves had a little rougher time, squeezing by with a 27-25 win.

Mt. Gilead sees its next action when it travels to Johnsville Tuesday night.

Hamilton and Middies Draw 7,500 Cage Fans

CINCINNATI (AP) — If Madison Square Garden wants to know how to draw a good crowd, ask Hamilton and Middletown.

These two southwestern Ohio high school basketball powers drew 7,500 fans last night as Hamilton edged Middletown, 74-70.

Madison Square was lamenting the other night only 5,000 showed up for a college basketball doubleheader.

Hamilton and Middletown have the solution, fans at the neutral Cincinnati Garden said. They have a keen rivalry and exciting games. Another in the Butler County series will be played here later in the season.

Cardington Beaten 81-59 By Iberia Basketballers

IBERIA — Iberia stretched its season record to 9-4 last night with an 81-59 decision over Cardington. The Pirates kept pace with Iberia during the first quarter, but the home team pulled ahead in the second period and kept the lead for the rest of the way.

Howard Miller dumped in 26 points to lead the winning attack, while Eddie Stall, seeing his first action as an Iberia starter, was second high with 19. Dick King made the loser's best effort, 18 points.

Iberia's reserves swept to their 11th straight victory with no trouble. They downed the Cardington jayvees 72-26. Iberia sees its next action at Caledonia Tuesday night.

Pro Grid Stars Clash Sunday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 1953 football wars, lopping over just a bit into 1954, finally come to an end tomorrow when the finest professionals of the National Football League engage in the fourth annual Pro Bowl game in Memorial Coliseum.

The contest, expected to attract upward of 35,000 fans, pits 31 selected players of the Western Conference against a like squad of the Eastern Conference.

It will be televised nationally over the Dumont system, with the Los Angeles area blacked out. The kickoff is slated for 4 p. m. EST.

The Westerners, with a three decker passing staff of Bobby Layne, Norman Van Brocklin and Y. A. Tittle and a brilliant array of receivers, plus a seemingly superior ground attack, is favored to win by at least a touchdown.

Hoping to upset such calculations, however, are such equally excellent stars of the Eastern team as passers Otto Graham and Bobby Thomason, and such receivers as Pete Pihos, Dante Lavelli and Elbie Nickel.

By George Sokolsky

Professor Edward S. Corwin, learned student of government and now organizer of a campaign against the Bricker Amendment, wrote a book some years ago entitled "The President — Office and Powers." It is a scholarly contribution to the subject.

So when I received a circular letter in opposition to the Bricker Amendment signed by Professor Corwin, I seized upon his book as an index to what the professor thinks on the subject. As regards the constitutional stipulations concerning the foreign policies and relations of the United States, Professor Corwin wrote:

"What the Constitution does, and all that it does, is to confer upon the president certain powers capable of affecting our foreign relations, and certain other powers of the same general nature upon the Senate, and still other such powers upon Congress; but which of these organs shall have the decisive and final voice in determining the course of the American nation is left for events to resolve.

"All of which amounts to saying that the Constitution, considered only for its affirmative grants of powers which are capable of affecting the issue, is an invitation to struggle for the privilege of directing American foreign policy . . ."

WHAT THE Bricker Amendment seeks to do is to eliminate this particular struggle, which often becomes unseemly, by clarifying the authority of Congress and the authority of the president. Such a clarification is necessary after the amazing and tragic performances of our presidents at the Teheran, Cairo, Yalta and Potsdam conference which brought upon us the state of permanent war.

Professor Corwin, anticipating one phase of the Bricker Amendment by many years, wrote:

"Of course, when it comes to legislation which would be capable of tying his (the president's) hands because of his constitutional obligation in respect to law enforcement, a president has usually an effective weapon of defense for his policies in his veto power. The trouble is that an act which was put on the statute books with the approval of a predecessor, or even with his own approval, may later turn out to be seriously cramping.

"Thus it was that President Wilson found it necessary early in 1914, when he was being subjected to strong pressure from Great Britain on account of his Mexican policy, to go before Congress and urge repeal of the Panama Tolls Act of 1911:

"I ask this of you in support of the foreign policy of the administration. I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure.'

"No more striking acknowledgment has ever been made by a president of the actual power of Congress in the foreign - relations field."

IT IS NOW clear that while Woodrow Wilson ran in 1916 on the slogan, "He Kept Us Out of War," he was already in 1914 laying the foundation for getting us into war in the event that Great Britain was in danger of defeat.

Congress was never informed of Woodrow Wilson's covert negotiations nor of the efforts of Walter Hines Page, our ambassador to the Court of St. James's, to support one side against the other in a war in which the Americans had no cause.

The American people actually believed that Woodrow Wilson was keeping this nation out of war.

Congress did, on March 4, 1913, pass a rider to the Appropriations Act forbidding the president to "extend or accept any invitation to participate in any international congress, conference, or like event without specific authorization to do so."

To this caveat, Professor Corwin remarks sagely: "Shades of Cairo, Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam! . . ."

IT WOULD SEEM that one who has written page after page about the confusion that has arisen in our history because the powers of the president and of congress in foreign relations have not been precisely defined, would favor a measure that does define those authorities precisely.

Were his position that the authority over foreign relations be exclusively the president's, it would be preferable to the present confusion. Then we should have to reorganize the American government on a Fascistic basis, making of our president a dictator, even in domestic affairs, as foreign relations and domestic affairs are today inseparable.

Is there then no alternative to confusion or Fascism? The Bricker Amendment offers such an alternative within the tradition of the American people.

In Middle

By Victor Riesel

Someone, somewhere in the White House, is briefing Gen. Eisenhower very badly.

The president tried earnestly enough to go down the center in his labor message to Congress. Instead he wound up in the middle.

RIESEL

His strategy of reaching over the heads of the labor leaders to get at the millions of rank and file union members and voters was fouled up somewhere between Friday and Monday nights. Ike's battle plan was sound. His staff work, in the White House and on the Hill, was almost ludicrous. Here's how he was hurt:

Ike, as always the great conciliator, knew that his business supporters were aggrieved because he seemed to be taking advice on labor primarily from the so-called Dewey camp in the Republican party.

The President, therefore, ordered Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Secretary of Labor Mitchell (generally considered to be in the Dewey camp) to get together and work out all final points of his message.

THIS THEY DID, for the most part, on Friday night. Their final working draft then was sent on to the White House staff.

There it was put together by Gerald Morgan, a very bright technician, with the help of Jack Martin, formerly Sen. Taft's aide-de-camp. Much of the actual language was set down by Assistant President Sherman Adams, who moved in to make certain that it reflected in "its language" what President Eisenhower wanted.

This meant, to me, that Mr. Morgan and Mr. Martin, representing the more conservative elements of the Republican Party, were working in harmony with Adams, who speaks for a loosely formed bloc reflecting Gov. Dewey's views in the party.

Except on one issue, they put together a very skillful message. There was room for both labor and industry to complain. And there was room for both sides to claim victory, too.

For example, the President actually eased the way for a secondary boycott. He hit at the old clause which says unions can't picket a store which is carrying the products of a factory they are striking. By easing up this ban, the President helped such outfits as the teamsters union and various retail clerks' unions.

THE PRESIDENT also urged that the new law make it clear that unions can't be sued for the acts of wildcatters, individual union members and perhaps even officials.

Most important of all he gave what is, in effect, a closed shop to over 3,000,000 AFL (and some CIO) workers in the construction trades, maritime field and entertainment industry, as predicted in this column.

This, for the most part, represents the Republican section of labor. There were a few other minor concessions to the unions.

But Ike hit the unions on several very vital points. Corruption in the operation of some welfare funds, first exposed here, was recognized.

The President knew that by urging stricter controls and study of the welfare fund field, he was opening the unions to sharp investigations. He also urged that employers be given full freedom, for the first time, to say whatever they wanted, whenever they so desired, about the unions in their establishments.

MOST IMPORTANT of all, he threw most labor relations in vital strikes into the jurisdiction of the states—14 of which have already banned the closed shop or instituted very restrictive picketing regulations hated by the unions.

However, so skillfully was this message drawn up that both sides would have taken it—with the usual amount of mild propaganda blasts. The magic Eisenhower touch would have worked again.

But—somebody sold him the idea, or worked it into the message, without actually telling him of the dangers—of a secret strike vote of the rank and file.

The professionals on both sides are still amazed by the proposal. In the first place, three are about 2,000 strikes crowded into some four months each year around the annual or bi-annual expiration dates of contracts. Millions of men are involved. It would cost hundreds of millions of dollars to set up these polls. There would be bitter campaigning by management and labor.

SUPPOSE John Lewis' coal miners boycott the polls in such a vote and strike anyway. Suppose some unions throw a picket sign before the polls and no union man crosses them to vote. The government would look silly.

Furthermore, if the intent was to convince the rank and file that the message meant them no harm, this clause hurt the President. Now the union leaders are saying that it was actually aimed at weakening labor's hand at the bargaining table.

Then along comes Sen. Smith, Ike's ranking labor strategist in the Senate. Smith proposes to move the strike vote date back to a point after the strike has been called.

The union officials see this as federal authorization of back-to-work movements, just when a large labor reserve is piling up among the unemployed, ready to take any available jobs. This was not Ike's intention.

Now there'll be a loud fight, no new law, and the neutralizing of Ike's effort to end the feud inside his own party!

Butter Glut

By Hal Boyle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anybody know what to do with 131,000 tons of butter?

Some of the best brains in government are trying to figure out a lend-grease program to get rid of it, but no one has come up with the right answer.

HAL BOYLE

The present administration is plagued with the problem of surpluses—surplus taxes, surplus unemployment, surplus leftover Democratic officeholder.

It also has its shortages, of course, including a shortage of Republican senators. But to a visiting taxpayer the most striking shortage is the shortage of ideas on how to get rid of that 131,000 tons of surplus butter. Meanwhile, under Uncle Sam's farm price support program the supply is being added to at the rate of 1,000 tons a day.

The butter costs the government about 66 cents a pound but sells on the world market for only 46 cents.

The government's problem is that there seems to be no way to get rid of the butter without making somebody mad.

It might be given away to the British, but for the lingering resentment they still hold against us for the dried eggs we forced them to accept after the last war. You can't safely insult a stout ally twice in one generation.

It might be sold to the Soviet government, which is reported to be yearning for 100,000 tons, if it would make for real friendship. But the statesmen here figure they have already learned that butter won't melt in a Russian mouth.

It can't be given away to the poor because that would be galloping socialism. It can't be given to the rich because that would be special privilege. It can't be plowed under, because any plow would skid on all that butter.

What can be done with it? Well, here are a few adventurous possibilities:

1. Load it on naval vessels and sail it around the world until it wears out.

2. Washington has a memorial to everybody but the American farmer. Why not build a tremendous monument to him, carved from 131,000 tons of butter? It might show a gigantic cow tenderly being milked by a faithful son of the soil in patched yellow overalls. Surrounded by plastic, this butter memorial would endure forever, and provide the capital with a tourist attraction rivaling the Washington Monument — and perhaps outweighing it, too.

3. Offer it to the Soviet government for nothing if each Russian peasant and bureaucrat got a free one-pound block of butter labeled "Gift of the U.S.A." This would set more Russians to pondering the virtues of free enterprise than 131,000 tons of paper propaganda. There is no better propaganda than the visible fruits of prosperity.

4. Congress wants to get a raise in pay but is bashful about voting itself money. Country doctors often take their fees in farm products when farmers are short of dollars. Well, why not give congressmen a flat bonus in surplus butter instead of crass cash?

"That is a generous, heart-warming proposal," said one legislator. "But if you divide 131,000 tons equally among 531 senators and representatives, each would get 500,000 pounds of butter. What would I do with 500,000 pounds of butter?"

Simple. Since politicians always butter up their constituents in an election year, they could wrap a couple of pounds of butter in their latest speech and mail a package to every voter in their district.

County

Green Camp held a 15-11 advantage at the first quarter and increased it to 25-18 at halftime before the winners began to slice the margin. When the third quarter came to an end, New Bloomington had trimmed Green Camp's advantage to three-points, 32-29. Seventeen points in the last stanza while Green Camp was scoring 11 overcame the defecit and brought New Bloomington the victory.

The winners dropped in 19 field goals to 14 for Green Camp but Coach Maurice Young's charges hit on 15 free throws to almos offset it. Twelve were missed. New Bloomington made eight of 13 free throws.

The win kept New Bloomington from plunging into the league depths with Pleasant and Green Camp. It marked Green Camp's sixth loss as against two wins in county league play.

Boles paced the New Bloomington offense with 14 points and Beers added 13. Jack Green was tops for Green Camp with 16 while Bob Bish shoved in 14 and Louie Finch 10.

In the preliminary reserve encounter, New Bloomington walked off with a 34-38 win. Brinkley had 10 for the winners but was outscored by Schultz of the losers who had 11. Green Camp defeated New Bloomington in the junior high game, 41-34.

—:—

Meeker gained its fourth county league victory by upsetting Claridon 39-36 at Meeker. It was only Claridon's second loss in league competition.

The winners used a slow, deliberate offense to topple the tall Claridon team, last year's county tournament champs, in the hard-fought contest.

Meeker led by a 6-5 count at the end of the opening quarter but Claridon came back with 11 points in the second canto for its 16-12 bulge at intermission. The winners outscored Claridon in each of the next two periods for the win, getting 13 points in the third to jump ahead 25-23.

Claridon was hurt when it lost three of its men during the final two periods. Gary Price departed in the third period on fouls while Pickett followed in the fourth. Also lost during the third canto were Castle of Claridon and Ron Griffin of Meeker.

Dick Sharp and Bob Johnson sparked the winners' attack with 13 and 12 points respectively. Gene Jessie potted 10 for the losers and Gary Row shoved in nine and Gary Price seven.

Claridon won the reserve match 32-25 as Johnson netted 10 for the winners. Hecker had the same total for the losing Meeker club.

Touring Comedy Cagers Scheduled at Crestline

CRESTLINE — The Harlem Roadkings, a touring group of basketball comedians, will meet the Crestline Clowns on Tuesday, Jan. 26, in a benefit game sponsored by the Crestline Boosters. The contest will be played at the high school gym.

One of the Harlem stars is Johnny Bright, all-American halfback from Drake University, who hit the headlines in 1951 when he had his jaw broken in an Oklahoma A. &. M. game.

Cleo Johnson of Cleveland, ace dribbler, clown and coach of the Roadkings, is pacing the team through its 160-game schedule. Johnson is now in his 14th year with the Roadkings.

Other Roadkings include 6-8 pivot man Bill Rosebourgh, who averages 30 points a game, Hiram Short, Bud Collins, Johnny Shaw and Skull Herring.

The Roadkings own an all-time record of 2,533 wins against 173 losses. Last year they had 150 wins in 161 starts.

Bucyrus Wins Opener In NOL; Downs Willard

BUCYRUS — Bucyrus dropped Willard 65-44 last night at Willard in the opening game of the Northern Ohio League chase. The win evened the Redmen's mark at four wins and four losses. Willard has won one and dropped eight.

The winners managed only a 14-13 edge in the first period but jumped out to a safe margin in the second stanza and were never threatened. Glen Butterman popped in 27 points to spark the Redmen and Roger Freshwater added 14. Angelo Camiscione was high for Willard with 15. The Willard reserves won 41-29.

Kenton Notches 67-63 Victory Against Bluffton

KENTON — Kenton's Wildcats came from behind in the final period last night to nose out Bluffton 67-63 on the losers' court in a Western Buckeye League battle.

The Cats went ahead 11-10 in the first period but trailed at the half 31-27 and at the end of the third quarter 51-45. A 22-point splurge cemented the win.

Virgil Deardorff hit for 28 markers to pace George Keel's winners while J. R. Hickle added 11 Lehman was high for Bluffton with 24. The Bluffton reserves won the preliminary 26-25.

Wyandot Indians Defeat Richwood Squad 52-47

Wyandot Indians edged the Richwood Athletic Club 52-47 in a tilt played at Richwood Thursday.

The twin brother combination of Merrill and Darrell Lust paced the winning team, composed mainly of former Harpster High School cagers. Merrill connected for 23 points while Darell added 17. Both were members of the Harpster team last year. Cheney hit for 20 for the losers, made up of former Richwood High School players.

Darby Hoopsters End 12-Year Reign by Richwood, Win 73-41

RICHWOOD — Richwood's Tigers dropped their first in Union County League play last night at Darby when the home team cruised to a 73-41 win. It was the first win by Darby over a Richwood team in 12 years.

The Tigers took an early edge and led at the quarter mark 13-12. Their attack bogged down and Darby held a 33-23 cushion at the half before the Richwood attack collapsed in the third stanza.

During that third period, the Tigers collected only six points while Darby hit for 12. The spurt gave Darby a 50-26 margin at the start of the final period.

High man for the Tigers was Matlack with an eight-point output. Griffith paced the winners with 22 while Bob Scheiderer collected 18 and Blumenschein hit for 13.

The Richwood reserves won the preliminary game 41-28.

Snead Holds Two-Stroke Edge in Panama Event

PANAMA, Panama (AP) — Sam Snead, trying for the $7,500 Panama Open golf title again after two runnerup roles, had a two-stroke lead at the half-way point today, but he couldn't afford to let up.

Snead added a 67 yesterday to his opening 66 for a 133 total, but Roberto de Vicenzo matched the 67 for a 135 total. And Skip Alexander of Southern Pines, N. C., bettered it with a 66 to take third place at 136.

Seven Mishaps Reported in Marion, County

Two people received minor injuries in the seven city and county accidents reported this morning by law-enforcing agencies.

The Marion post of the state highway patrol and the Marion County sheriff's office each reported one accident in the county, while Marion police reported five city accidents. One person was injured in each of the county accidents.

Icy pavements caused the three city accidents investigated by police this morning.

A car driven by Brady Jones, 57, of near Marion was extensively damaged in the rear end where it was struck by a truck driven by William P. McNamara, 23, of Columbus. The accident occurred this morning on N. State St. at E. Fairground St.

Both cars were north-bound on N. State St. and Jones had stopped for a traffic light. McNamara attempted to stop but skidded on the ice and collided with Jones. The truck received moderate damage on the right front fender.

A car owned by W. C. Morehouse of 375 E. Fairground St. and a car driven by William E. Toby, 30, of Marion, were moderately damaged in an accident at 11 a.m. today.

Morehouse had parked his car in front of his house where it was struck by Toby who skidded on the slippery pavement.

Robert J. Richie, 28, of 455 Fies Ave., damaged a stop sign at W. Center and Garden Sts. this morning. He was heading east on W. Center St., and was attempting to turn right on to Garden St. when his car skidded on the icy pavement and hit the sign. His car was undamaged.

Man Hurt in Mishap

John C. Oldaker, 62, of New Bloomington, was injured slightly in the only Marion County accident reported today by the state highway patrol.

Oldaker, who received a slight bruise of the left eye, was a passenger in a pick-up truck which was involved in an accident with a semi-trailer truck on Route 30-S about eight miles west of Marion at 11:40 p.m. yesterday.

The pick-up was driven by Fay L. Hughes, 69, of 438 Windsor St., the semi-trailer by John M. Dintaman, 47, of Jackson Center, O. Both vehicles were moderately damaged.

According to the patrol, Hughes' car skidded to the left when his brakes locked as he slowed down for a bridge. Dintaman, seeing Hughes skidding, applied his brakes and skidded sideways into the right rear side of Hughes' car. Both vehicles were west-bound.

Passenger Is Injured

In an accident investigated Friday night by the sheriff's office, Forest Cochran, 43, of Morral, sustained facial lacerations. He was a passenger in an automobile driven by Lester W. Butcher, 37, of near Marion, which struck a pole after attempting to miss a parked car on Fountain St. north of Marion.

Cochran was taken to the Marion City Hospital where he was treated and released. Damage resulted to the front end of the car which had to be towed to a local garage.

The accident happened around 7:30 p.m.

Truck, Car Damaged

A pick-up truck and a car were both moderately damaged in an accident on N. Main St. at Fairview St. at 3:10 p.m. yesterday.

The truck was driven by Roy Alfred Loudenslager, 18, of near Marion and the car by George Albert Stark, 42, of Detroit.

Both cars were north-bound on N. Main St. when Loudenslager started to turn right on to Fairview St., colliding with Stark who crashed into a pole.

Minor damage resulted to cars driven by Eliza Jambier, 45, of 495 Jefferson St. and Donna Ruth Ward, 23, of Waldo in an accident on Church St. just east of S. Main St. at 2:11 p.m. yesterday. Both cars were east-bound on E. Church St. when the Gandler car collided with the Ward car which was backing into a parking space.

Township Captains Appointed for Mothers' March

THE SELECTION of 18 women volunteers from Marion County to act as township captains in the Mothers' March on Polio Thursday night, Jan. 28 from 7 to 8 p.m., was announced today by Mrs. John Peacock and Mrs. William Guthery, co-chairmen for the county.

Each of the volunteer captains is responsible for her township organization and will serve as coordinator.

"Contact mothers" for rural Marion County will work directly under their captains in many instances and some will make their collections during the day.

Second row: Mrs. Frederick Bauer, Richland Township, Mrs. W. Neil Price, Green Camp, chairman, Mrs. Vinton Porterfield, Waldo Township, Mrs. Robert Gray, Prospect chairman, and Bert Freed, co-chairman, March of Dimes campaign.

Third row: Mrs. C. R. Rice, Tully Township, Mrs. Art Miller, Montgomery Township, Mrs. L. R. Coulter, co-chairman, Claridon, Mrs. M. F. Axthelm, co-chairman, Claridon.

Township captains not present at the meeting are: Mrs. Alonzo Granger, Big Island, Mrs. Ed Mallett, Bowling Green Township, Mrs. Ray Dobbins, Scott Township, Mrs. Robert Rea, Grand Prairie Township, and Mrs. William Chester Scott, co-chairman, Pleasant Township. Any mother desiring to volunteer her services in her area is urged to contact her area captain.

meal of roast chicken and two desserts—coconut cream pie and angel food cake.

Reformatory officials never told her Gov. Frank J. Lausche yesterday refused to spare her life. And she gave no sign of knowing during the trip from Marysville. More remarkable still, she did not ask.

Executive clemency was her last hope of escape. All other appeals had failed.

She requested no special witnesses at her execution. Present were two ministers, a Catholic priest, 12 newsmen, 2 prison matrons, a prison physician, Warden Ralph W. Alvis, and 5 guards.

Her execution ended a life of frugality and pain. She came from a broken home and married young. Her first husband went to prison for raping a daughter. The daughter later died. A son was killed in a boiler explosion. Dovie—to make ends met—went to work as a domestic in other people's homes.

Wanted a Home

She met Hawkins early in 1951 when she came from Charleston, W. Va., to keep house for a daughter at Batavia, Ohio.

When she married him she finally had a home, a 115-acre place near Owensville.

It wasn't romance, she said. "He wanted a housekeeper and I wanted a home."

Immediately after the execution the body was taken to Charleston, for funeral services tomorrow. Burial will be at Cunningham Memorial Park.

Mrs. Dean's 83-year-old father, Jack Smarr, lives at Dunbar, W. Va. A son, Carl Myers, was reported to have spent last night with his sister, Mrs. Ruby Bryant of Hurricane, W. Va. The other children are Jack Myers of Dupont, W. Va., and Mrs. Leslie King of Sacco, Mo. Eight grandchildren also survive.

McCarthy

1947, to late summer or fall of 1950.

He said, in a prepared statement, that his refusal to name his Communist associates was made because "I do not think that my duty to my country requires me to become a political informer."

McCarthy said at the end of yesterday's session that in his opinion the Furry case was "one of the most aggravated cases of contempt" he had seen.

"To me it is inconceivable that a university which has had the reputation it (Harvard) has had keeps this creature on, teaching our children," McCarthy said.

McCarthy previously demanded that Harvard President Nathan Pusey oust Furry from the faculty.

Dr. Pusey, who was a fellow townsman and political foe of McCarthy in Appleton, Wis., before coming to Harvard last year, has declined to fire Furry.

Cancer Operation Success

Man Healthy Despite Loss of Stomach

LONDON (NANA) — Two years ago this month a surgeon with two years to live and a man on the verge of death met for the first time.

"Your only hope of life is for me to operate on you," said the surgeon.

"I've never performed this operation before, but if I don't operate you'll be dead in two months.

"There's a 50-50 chance of your dying on the operating table, but if you survive, you'll outlive me and many of your friends, too."

The operation was unique. It involved removing the whole of the patient's cancered stomach, and joining the vital organs with a tube.

But the operation had to be an immediate one.

For the surgeon knew that he, too, was suffering from cancer and that before long one of his hands would have to be amputated.

THE OPERATION was performed at Clivedon Hospital near Lady Astor's estate in Buckinghamshire. The surgeon was 43-year-old Vaughan Payne; the patient, 45-year-old Burma veteran Maj. Robert Howard.

Why did Howard give his permission for such a daring operation? "I had great confidence in Payne," he said. "And there was so much I wanted to see and do before I died.

"My chances of survival were slim, but if I was going to die within a couple of months what did that matter?

"Before going under I remembered thinking of George, a friend's Maltese terrier with whom I was great pals. And as the nurse stuck the needle in I said to myself, "it's worth living just to see old George again'."

—:—

THE OPERATION BEGAN at 8:45 in the morning and lasted until 3:15 in the afternoon.

Having removed the entire stomach the surgeon connected the vital organs with a plastic tube and then sewed the patient's body up with 98 stitches.

For the next 24 hours Howard lived in the no man's land between life and death. "I'm going to live, I'm going to live," he muttered—and live he did, but the battle was far from won.

Although science and skill had brought him through the operation, unknown factors might yet arise to kill him.

"But I had a good idea I'd pull through," the major delcared. "Know why I saw George the dog looking at me through the ward window.

"How he knew I was in this particular ward nobody knows. It's still a mystery to all of us."

Payne astounded the nurses by putting Howard on solid food after three days—ham and eggs and steaks.

"It was the first time I'd enjoyed food for years," he said, "and I was jolly glad to be rid of my stomach."

—:—

WHAT HAPPENS in this astonishing cure is that when the major eats, his food goes undigested through the tube to the intestines. There a digestive process has been introduced.

Every 12 days the major has to be inoculated with digestive juices that would have been normally supplied by his stomach.

He has to sleep in a sitting position. He can't play golf or tennis. But he can eat and drink anything he pleases except chocolate.

"For some odd reason," he said, "my new innards reject it, automatically."

What happened to the surgeon who had returned this man to the world"

Within a year of performing this near-miraculouw operation, Payne lost part of an arm— and his hands were not available when the next crisis arose.

In March 1953, Howard was in such robust health that he grew careless. While planting pansies in his garden something broke inside him and he had to have an emergency operation.

Payne rushed to the hospital and from two o'clock in the morning until dawn he directed the second vital operation.

Howard lives, but the man who gave him life died last month.

Bricker

was a case where the head of our government acted without making a treaty or an executive agreement.

"What he did was to give consent to Stalin to go ahead with his expansion plans."

But Ferguson said he does not think a similar situation will arise in the future.

Concessions Granted

At the time of the Yalta conference, the United States was trying to persuade the U.S.S.R. to enter the war against Japan. Agreements published later gave Russia concessions in Asiatic islands and Manchuria and also sought to provide for free elections in Poland, then Russian-occupied, meanwhile giving some recognition to a Russian-backed government.

President Eisenhower, opposing the Bricker amendment in its present form, was described by an administration official yesterday as prepared to take the issue to the people if necessary.

But attempts are continuing to find a compromise before a Senate showdown, scheduled within the next few weeks.

Ferguson mets today with Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California and Atty. Gen. Brownell to try to frame revisions Bricker would accept.

No Progress

The Michigan senator reported no progress in efforts to compromise with Bricker on a section of his proposed amendment which would give Congress power to "regulate" executive agreements made by the president.

The two major barriers to an agreement are this section and one which Eisenhower said would take the country back to pre-Constitution days when an individual state could nullify a treaty.

The Bricker amendment is avowedly designed to guard against treaties operating as domestic law, unless Congress specifically acts But opponents say that under its terms even the 48 state Legislatures might have to consent in some cases where the federal Constitution reserved powers to states.

The President apparently can count on some Democratic support to modify Bricker's version, which has split Republicans down the middle.

Bucyrus Board Meets, Elects Pastor President

BUCYRUS — Rev. M. P. Paetznick, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Bucyrus, was elected president of the city board of education at the annual reorganization meeting held here Thursday night. He succeeds Franklin Roberts, an insurance agent.

New members of the board are Fred C. Ward, an executive at the Swan Rubber Co., and Emerson Stuckman, a partner in the Crawford Nursery. They succeed James E. Huggins, automobile dealer, and Roy Widman, banker, both of whom did not seek re-election. Widman served 12 years on the board and Huggins was a member for six years. James W. Overholt was elected vice president.

Mrs. Ethel Haines was rehired as clerk-treasurer of the board and secretary to Supt. I. J. Miller at her present salary of $3,600 a year. Supt. Miller recommended that she be given a salary increase and the proposal is expected to be considered at the next board meeting.

The board also has approved an appropriation of $465,044, an increase of $53,886, for general fund operating expenses of the schools this year. Last year's appropriation totaled $412,158.

Prisoners

22,400 unrepatriated prisoners to the Allies and Communists and Indian Village near here took on a holiday air.

Everybody Happy

"It's like the last day of school," one Indian major said. "Everyone is going around with big smiles."

There was no further word from the Communist Peiping radio which Friday night told Chinese troops in Korea that the Allies would threaten the truce by accepting 22,000 anti-Red Koreans and Chinese from the Indians.

The Reds were expected in most quarters to object violently to the turnback proposal, but some Allied officers said there was a possibility of a startling Communist about face. They did not elaborate.

U.N. Command Gets Set

The U. N. Command put finishing touches on preparations for handling the first anti-Communist prisoners Wednesday.

Some 560 trucks, seven 21-car trains, three hospital trains, a new tent city and 16 big landing ships have been mobilized to handle the prisoners.

The trains will be used to move about 8,000 Koreans south. More than 14,000 Chinese will be moved by truck.

The Koreans will be sent to two South Korean induction centers for processing and release. The Chinese will be put aboard the LSTs for the trip to Formosa.

22,388 Under Guard

The Indians are guarding 22,388 unrepatriated prisoners. In the anti-Communist south camp are 14,321 Chinese and 7,718 North Koreans—a total of 22,039. In the pro-Communist north camp are 327 South Koreans, 21 Americans and 1 Briton—a total of 349.

Rhee

dent Rhee specifically refused to set any definite date. The point that the President was trying to make is that once it becomes entirely clear that peaceful efforts are a failure, we must take action—with the help of our allies, we hope—to bring about unification by other means."

Preliminary talks to set up a peace conference were suspended Dec. 12 after the Reds accused the United States of conniving with South Korea in the release of 27,000 anti-Red Korea war prisoners last June.

Logic of Argument

Rhee told newsmen of U.N. countries:

"When your soldiers came here they asked 'What the hell are we fighting for?'

" 'If you don't fight here now,' they were told, 'you will some day fight in your own back yard.'

"They were convinced and they died. Have you completed your objectives here now, where American boys will not fight in their own back yards? Is that objective accomplished?

"We here will sacrifice all we have and all we are until we accomplish that objective. We will not sit back and wait until we are sold out."

The Indian Command, meanwhile, waited for reaction from the Allies and Communists to its decision to return all unrepatriated war prisoners starting next Wednesday.

The Indians asked for replies by midnight Saturday.

Reds To Object

The U.N. Command is expected to accept the 22,500 anti-Red Koreans and Chinese now in Indian custody, but the Reds are expected to object strenuously to the plan.

Under U.N. interpretation of the armistice, all unrepatriated prisoners are to be freed as civilians at midnight Jan. 22. The Communists want them held until a peace conference decides their fate.

An Indian proposal to recall the U.N. Assembly Feb. 9 to debate Korean problems got no support from the United States and other big powers. The Communist bloc, except for Poland, already is on record as favoring the session.

Marion Banks

large and small businesses and industries.

—:—

BANKERS STRESS THE important role that bank loans play in keeping the county's business progressing satisfactorily. Money lent to business concerns makes it possible for them to improve their premises and equipment, maintain adequate stocks of goods and provide other necessary services. Loans to individuals permit them to buy automobiles, home appliances, improve or purchase homes and farms, all of which contributes to the stability of the community.

Several elements of safety for depositors are reflected in the year-end bank statements, it is pointed out.

ONE BASIC ELEMENT is the capital stock of the local institutions, amounting to a total of $2,015,000, and owned largely by residents of the county. In addition to the actual capital stock, the local banks have a total of $726,397 in undivided profits and reserves.

Another major safety factor is the total of $13,281,040 in government bonds owned by the banks, plus large amounts of cash on hand and on deposit in other banks. These bonds, cash, and other assets are available to satisfy needs of depositors.

For further protection of depositors, The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which was created by the federal government but is financed entirely by banks, insures each deposit account up to $10,000. Bankers point out that, although the limit of insurance per account is $10,000, a man and wife, for instance, may have a total of $30,000 of insured deposits in the bank . . . $10,000 in the name of each, and $10,000 in a joint account.

Banks included in the above report are: The Fahey Banking Co., the Marion County Bank and the National City Bank of Marion.

Wandering Stock Claimed by Owner

The four wandering Hereford heifers and one steer, who started out Thursday to "see the city", are back on the farm today.

Richard Price of near Marion, claimed the cattle Friday morning at the Marion County sheriff's office. Apparently, he said, the heifers and steer managed to escape through a fence from his farm on County Road 66 and wandered down the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks to N. State St. where they were spotted Thursday morning.

Sheriff's deputies, with the help of neighbors and employes of Philip Malo, rounded them up and took them to the nearby Malo farm for safekeeping.

New Alma Mater Song Selected at Harding High

New words and a new tune make up the song Harding High School students and alumni will be singing at assemblies, games and other gatherings from now on.

The new Alma Mater song was adopted by the students at the Friday morning assembly at Harding High School, following a period when students, alumni and anyone else interested in composing words and music for a new song were invited to submit manuscripts. The deadline was Jan. 6.

WORDS OF THE new song are by Miss Lucile Foreman, instructor of journalism at Harding High School, and the music was written by Richard D. Myers, Harding High alumnus. The song is particularly significant as to the school's location, is tuneful and will adapt itself readily to band, orchestra and voice arrangements.

Myers also was author of the Harding fight song.

A tape recording by Carolyn Jones, pianist, and Homer Huffman, violinist, was presented each morning this week over the school's public address system without any reference to its origin or purpose, and was sung by the student body.

THE VOTE was 810 for its adoption and 139 negative when the students voted in their home rooms following the assembly.

Gilbert Herr, president of the student body, was in charge of the presentation of the school project.

The song follows:

"Harding High School
Our Devotion
Grows with each succeeding year;
Proudly now we lift our voices
In a mighty cheer.
(Chorus)
Harding High School, Alma Mater,
Old and young repeat the cry;
Louder, stronger swells the chorus
Harding, Harding High.
Indian Mound sends back the echo
Rolling through the boundless sky.
Honor to thee, live forever,
Our beloved Harding High!

THE REMAINDER of the assembly period was given over to talks by Kenneth Somerlot, athletic coordinator and James Lawler, head basketball coach on game interest, sportsmanship and game courtesies. Lawler presented his basketball team in uniform and the team demonstrated fast breaking, offensive tactics and other points of the game. A brief pep rally followed the demonstration.

Girls' School Head Speaks at Institute In Upper Sandusky

UPPER SANDUSKY — The 66th annual Community Institute at the High School auditorium here closed Friday afternoon, completing a two-day program.

A highlight of the final session Friday afternoon was a fact-packed talk by Mrs. Evelyn R. Ethell, superintendent of the Girls Industrial School at Delaware.

"Child delinquency," said Mrs. Ethell in her opening remarks," is largely caused by the lack of parents and children getting together to talk over their problems." A total of 320 girls are now housed in the institution. They range in ages from 12 to 18.

The delinquent child is the unhappy child, Mrs. Ethell continued. She has found in her years of work with the girls that in many cases it is the lack of love in the home, or the thought that one child is loved more than another, that contributes a major cause of problem children. Many girls brought to the institution are found incapable of making their own decisions, she said.

Mrs. Ethell said the school does not use corporal punishment but rather the restriction or denial of privileges for disciplinary purposes. In conclusion, she emphasized community responsibility for providing a good religious program and educational activities.

Musical portions of the program were by the Upper Sandusky High School choir. A one-act play was presented by the high school speech class under the direction of Don Olin.

Gas Pump Burns; Loss Totals $150

Loss was estimated at $150 in a fire at a garage and filling station at 627 Bellefontaine Ave. Friday.

A short circuit in the wiring of the gas pump set fire to the pump, firemen reported, and spread to the roof of the building. Of the total loss, $125 was damage to the pump and $25 to the building.

Firemen from Central and W. Center St. stations were summoned at 12:46 p.m. yesterday.

The garage and filling station is operated by Robert Hoover. Don

Bellville Woman Hurt In Morrow Auto Crash

A Bellville woman, Irene Heslet, 43, was taken to Mansfield General Hospital with a severe laceration of the right knee received when her car was demolished in a Morrow County accident at 4:45 p.m. yesterday.

A car driven by the injured woman was heading east on the Morrow County Road No. 3, one mile south of the Morrow-Richland County line and just east of Route 42 when it skidded on the pavement and went off the road, hitting a tree.

Both the Marion and Mansfield posts of the state highway patrol investigated the accident.

Freezing Rain Makes Driving Conditions Bad

A slight freezing rain is making area highways and roads hazardous for driving, the Marion post of the state highway patrol reported this morning.

If the condition continues, driving may become dangerous, the patrol added.

State highway crews are salting highways in an attempt to lessen the danger. City street crews have been out since 5:30 a.m. salting and cindering main thoroughfares.

To date, the only petition on file at the Board of Elections is that of Robert Stief, who is seeking the Republican central committeeman post from Precinct E. Sixth Ward.

Camp of Gideons Holds Dinner in Bank Rooms

A dinner meeting of the Marion Camp of Gideons and the auxiliary was held recently in the community rooms at the West Town Branch Bank. Guests were Mrs. Lester Ireland, Mrs. Lulu Corwin, Mrs. Maude Scheifler and Mrs. Everett Douce.

Clifford Ward offered prayer preceding dinner, and led group singing following. Mrs. Paul Zachman presided at the piano. Devotions were by Paul Cyders.

Separate business sessions were held by the men and women. During the auxiliary meeting Mrs. Everett Douce was enrolled as a new member. Mrs. Stafford led devotions, and Mrs. C. Z. Zachman gave the closing prayer.

Refusal of Gov. Lausche To Grant Stay Criticized

CINCINNATI (AP) — City Councilman Al Jordan, a Democrat, says he will not campaign for the re-election of Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche because the governor wouldn't stop the execution of Mrs. Dovie Dean.

Mrs. Dean was electrocuted last night for the poison-murder of her husband, Hawkins.

Jordan declared he was resigning as 15th Ward Democratic chairman "because I cannot conscientiously work for the re-election of Gov. Lausche in view of his refusal to commute the sentence of Dovie Dean."

Appliances Increase Load

Poor Electrical Wiring Ups Cost, Experts Say

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

Most of us are paying for electricity we are not getting. The reason, experts say, is that our homes are inadequately wired. We are trying to get a firehose flow of electricity through a soda straw.

We have filled our homes with electrical gadgets and appliances which were not even invented when most of our houses were wired for electric lights. We plug all of these new conveniences into the same trickle of power and naturally the voltage, or pressure, goes down.

The toaster dries out the bread instead of giving it a quick golden brown. The coffee maker slows down. Breakfast is late and we're late for work.

The problem is so universal that industry leaders are concerned.

NOT ONE BUILDER'S HOUSE in 20 is adequately wired for electrical living," says House & Home, trade publication of the home building industry.

"In practically every home built before World War II, wiring is more than inadequate; it's obsolete," says Business Week, examining the "appliance' boom that has led to a crisis."

The electrical load in the average home has increased 100 per cent since before the war, according to the power companies. But wiring has not kept pace.

If you doubt that all this is taking money out of your pocket, consider these examples compiled by electrical engineers of the National Adequate Wiring Bureau:

1. A toaster plugged into a wiring system which has a voltage drop of 10 per cent—common in a majority of homes—takes 31.5 per cent more time to brown a piece of toast and consumes 28.6 per cent more current than when plugged into an adequately wired circuit.

2. An electric roaster takes 28 per cent more time to reach its required cooking temperature and wastes 19 per cent of the current.

3. A lamp loses 34 per cent of its brilliance where there is a voltage drop of 10 per cent on your house circuit.

—:—

WHAT CAN BE DONE ABOUT it? H. H. Watson, engineer in the construction materials division of the General Electric Co., sums it up this way:

"Existing inadequately wired homes should be rewired and new homes must be wired to adequate standards if the homemaker and her family are to enjoy the benefits of full electric living."

The cost of wiring a house amounts to about as much as painting a house. And an efficient wiring system lasts a lot longer than any paint job. Also, it costs far less to wire a house properly during construction than after a house is finished.

"In Los Angeles," reports House & Home, "most home buyers find they cannot use an electric stove without first paying $94 for an electric outlet."

Home builders, the Federal Housing Administration, the Veteran's Administration and local electrical codes have been blamed for the new houses with old-style wiring. In New York's vast Long Island suburban field, where more than 4,000 new homes have been sold in one week, only 60-ampere panel boards have been installed even in fairly large all-electric homes.

"No house should have less than a 100-ampere panel board," comments House & Home, adding, "extra cost: $5."

With so many more room coolers, electric blankets and other new appliances, all circuits (not just kitchen circuits) should be three-wire."

AN INTERESTING sidelight on placing blame for overloads on house wiring was provided recently by Business Week. A woman, whose well-equipped home included all of the 56 common appliances, plugged in an electric coffeemaker while most of the other gadgets were working, and a fuse blew out. Whose fault was that? Should she blame the manufacturer of the coffeemaker, or the power company for inferior electricity?

"As a public relations gesture," said Business Week, "the power company may send a service man around to change the fuse—although in most instances it's not the company's responsibility. Last year Consolidated Edison Co. of New York answered more than 200,000 calsl on blown fuses at a cost of about one million dollars."

Are such expenditures passed on in your power bills?

Building Permits

Two building permits with a total valuation of $9,125 were issued at the Marion City Clerk's office during the week from Jan. 8 through 14. This was two more than for the previous week when none were issued.

New Construction: General Contracting Co., house on Madison Ave., $9,000.

Improvements: A. H. Wilson, Decatur St., addition of utility room, $125.

She also broadcasts regularly over WCLT, local radio station in Newark. The broadcast has a religious theme and is titled "Moments of Devotion." She is sponsored by the Licking County Federation of Church Women and also appears through the courtesy of the Ministerial Association of that county. She is a tively associated with literary, civic and church work in Newark.

The meeting will be at 8 o'clock.

Inspection Slated Tuesday By Delta Theta Tau Sorority

Inspection of the work of Gamma Mu Chapter, Delta Theta Tau Sorority will be conducted Tuesday evening in the Plantation Room at Hotel Harding. The inspecting officer will be Mrs. Chester Spitler of Dayton, national secretary of philanthropy. A dinner will precede the inspection.

Plans for the meeting were completed when members of Gamma Mu Chapter met Tuesday night in the Elks parlors. At this meeting Miss Alice Gertrude Smith was appointed chairman of the membership committee. Mrs. Harry Partridge gave a report on the ways and means committee's work. Mrs. B. N. North was named chairman of arrangements for the inspection dinner. Mrs. Bernardine Price was elected a delegate to the province convention to be held here Jan. 23 and 24 and Mrs. Robert Shoemaker was appointedt to serve as sergeant-at-arms by Mrs. Edward Fox, province officer of Ohio and Michigan.

Gamma Mu Chapter, organized 26 years ago, is active in civic projects. Annual contributions are made to community campaigns and as an organization, the members aid less fortunate families at holiday time and throughout the year.

The national sorority, founded in 1903, is organized for the advancement of philanthropy and each chapter sponsors some charity project in its own community. In 1953 the members gave more than $93,000 for philanthropic work in addition to unlimited hours of service in hospitals, schools, campaigns and other civic work. Twenty-nine years ago the members established the Delta Theta Tau Community School at Brinkley, Ky. A stone school building and a home for teachers was constructed. Now a third generation is attending the school which is modern in every detail and serves as a model for the mountain district.

During World War I the chapter adopted French orphans and during World War II the organization received a certificate of achievement from the U. S. Navy in recognition of outstanding services including the establishment of a Brace Shop at Mare Island. Readers for disabled veterans and the establishment of occupational therapy projects in a number of veterans' hospitals throughout the country were included in the services. A present project is the raising of funds to found a home for retiring members of the sorority. The sorority also maintains a beneficiary fund for members needing medical care.

Previews of the Coming Attractions at the Local Theaters

'Quo Vadis' To Return To Palace on Sunday

"Quo Vadis," spectacular technicolor production starring Robert Taylor and Deborah Kerr, will play a return engagement at the Palace Theater, at popular prices. It will be shown Sunday through Tuesday.

Filmed in Italy with a cast of thousands, "Quo Vadis" tells the story of the birth of Christianity in a pagan world. It is the story of a handsome warrior and a beautiful girl who find their love is matched by their devotion to a cause which becomes a crusade against man's inhumanity towards man.

The picture opens with the return of Vinicuis, played by Robert Taylor, to Rome, following his victorious campaign in Britain, and his meeting with Lygia, played by Deborah Kerr, young daughter of the late King of Lygia and now a military prisoner, with whom he falls in love. He is won over to Lygia's faith after Nero has burned Rome to the ground. Finally, the reign of Nero is ended and the spread of Christianity is assured.

Billed for Wednesday through Saturday is a double feature, "Forever Female," starring Ginger Rogers and William Holden, and "The Great Diamond Robbery" starring Red Skelton with Cara Williams, James Whitmore, Kurt Kasznar and Dorothy Stickney.

In the latter film, Skelton plays Ambrose, a young man whose parents had deposited him on a park bench when he was an infant and who has grown up to become an apprentice in a fashionable jewelry shop. His whole life centers on two objectives, the one to find and aid his long-lost parents, and the other to cut the fabulous $2 million Blue Goddess diamond. Things happen when a shyster lawyer impresses a group of hoodlums to pose as Ambrose's family and their subsequent involvement in a scheme to make off with the famous diamond.

THOUSANDS OF PARATROOPERS are seen in action in the technicolor film, "Paratrooper," which is the current attraction through Monday at the Ohio Theater. Alan Ladd, above, is starred and Leo Genn is co-starred.

'Paratrooper' at Ohio; Stars Ladd, Leo Genn

"Paratrooper," technicolor film starring Alan Ladd and Leo Genn with Susan Stephen, currently is playing through Monday at the Ohio Theater.

The film is the story of Alan Ladd who, like other fellows, volunteered for the service. It starts with his training in hand-to-hand combat and includes his first jumps. It relates his encounter with parachute-packer Susan Stephen.

He carried on his shoulder a chip against the world and Susan knocks it off at their first meeting. From there on Ladd's battles never end—not with Susan on the home front, with Leo Genn as his commanding officer, nor with the enemy behind their own lines.

Billed for Tuesday through Thursday is a double feature, "The Diamond Queen" and "Black Fury." The former stars Fernando Lamas, Arlene Dahl and Gilbert Roland.

"The Diamond Queen" tells the story of Jean Baptist Tavernier, first Frenchman to explore India, who later returned to France with the diamond that became the capstone of the crown of Louis XIV. Known today as the Hope Diamond, it is the finest prize among the jewels of the gem-loving Mogul, ruler of Golconda, India's diamond center. Lamas offers to give the ruler of the secret of the hand grenade in exchange for the diamond. The crafty Mogul suggests a test of the power of the grenade, a duel between the largest cannon and Lamas armed with a grenade.

"Black Fury" relates a drama of men against beasts in Georgia's Okefenokee Swamp.

Starting Friday will be "Miss Sadie Thompson," in 3-D and starring Rita Hayworth and Jose Ferrer.

Skelton Comedy on Bill At Marion With Western

"Half A Hero" starring Red Skelton with Jean Hagen, and "War Paint" with Robert Stack, Joan Taylor, Charles McGraw and Peter Graves, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion Theater.

In the former, the comedian portrays a typical young husband striving to get ahead, anxious to ingratiate himself with his boss, and determined to hold down the expense line on a budget. But then his wife decides that the suburbs is the only place to bring up a child, that they must buy a house and they must have a car. "War Paint" tells of the plot of an Indian guide to destroy with the aid of thirst, heat and hunger, a detachment of United States cavalry.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "Small Town Girl" and "Outcast of the Island."

The former, starring Jane Powell and Farley Granger, is the story of a small town girl who sweeps a big city boy off his feet, but she has to get him out of jail to do it.

The attractions Thursday through Saturday will be "The Steel Lady" co-starring Tab Hunter and Rod Cameron, and "Come On Leathernecks."

"The Steel Lady" is the story of a group of men marooned on the expanse of the Sahara, a hundred miles from the nearest outpost, under constant danger from attack by hostile Arabs.

'Silver Whip' at State Theater With 'Juggler'

"Silver Whip" starring Dale Robertson and Rory Calhoun, and "The Juggler" with Kirk Douglas and Milly Vitale, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State Theater.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "People Will Talk" and "Canyon Ambush." The former stars Cary Grant and Jeanne Crain, and heading the cast in the latter is Johnny Mack Brown.

Gregory Peck and Susan Hayward are the stars of the film, "David and Bathsheba," which will be the main attraction of the double feature playing Thursday and Friday. Completing the billing will be "Montana Territory" with Lon McCallister and Wanda Hendrix.

Saturday only, the attractions will be "Black Midnight" starring Roddy McDowall and Damian O'Flynn, and "Pals of the Saddle" with John Wayne.

Concert Artist Reunited With Precious Cello

Piatigorsky Recovers 1712 Stradivarius Looted During War

NEW YORK (AP)—Concert cellist Gregor Piatigorsky and an old friend were together again — reunited after a strange combination of circumstances that bridged years and miles.

The old friend is a 1712 Stradivarius cello with which he parted 12 years ago.

Piatigorsky flew in from Los Angeles yesterday to meet his mother-in-law, Baroness Germaine De Rothschild, who came from Europe to restore the valued cello to its owner.

At Idlewild Airport the baroness handed him the instrument, and the giant musician smiled and fingered it fondly.

He had left the cello at the Paris home of the baroness during the war. It was looted by the occupying Germans along with other Rothschild art treasures.

The art works were recovered, but it was not until two months ago that the cello was discovered.

A violin maker in Aachen, Germany, had gained possession of it. The old craftsman studied it, suspicious at the small price he had been asked to pay for it. He soon recognized it as a cello given Piatigorsky by music lovers in Berlin in 1927.

The German wrote Piatigorsky, addressing the letter simply to the cellist, United States—without mentioning city or state. Eventually the letter reached Piatigorsky, who sent photographs and other information to satisfy the violin maker that it was, indeed, the missing cello.

Declining to say what he had paid for its return, Piatigorsky yesterday said the German was "extremely decent" about it.

While chatting with newsmen about the instrument, Piatigorsky mentioned that he was a native of Russia and, mindful of the international situation, commented:

"I think I had better change my name to Pat O'Gorsky."

Bread Train Carries Campaign Coins

LOOKS GOOD ENOUGH to eat. That's what a lot of Marionites have remarked about the miniature train that Paul Schafer of the Marion Pastry Shop, 127 Washington St., created with bread dough.

Schafer made it in hopes that customers will take note and drop coins into the edible railway cars for the current March of Dimes drive.

The bread train has chocolate icing with white trim and it "runs" on wheels made of quarters, half dollars and silver dollars which are Schafer's personal contribution to the fight aginast polio. An iced and decorated poster beside the train carries this appeal: "Ride the polio express with the fare you can spare to bring health and happiness to the children who need care." Each of the little "express" cars has been hollowed out to hold contributions. However, donations can be stuck into any part of the train's icing. It's the first attempt in helping with the Marion polio foundation drive for Schafer, who previously made other styles of "dimes" cakes while he was owner of the Model Bakery in Galion. He came here about a year and a half ago, and has been in the baking business for some 20 years.

After the climax of the polio drive with the Mothers' March on Jan. 28, Schafer will offer first, second and third prizes to the persons who guess the number of coins in and on the train. All proceeds will then go to the Marion County March of Dimes campaign fund.

40 Men Dig In Drain Pipe For Lost Dog

DANVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Forty men, guided by searchlight signals, dug into a tile drain pipe on a nearby farm for nearly four hours during the night in search of a missing coon dog reportedly trapped in the pipe since Sunday.

But after the feverish digging in the freezing weather they found no trace of the missing 7-month-old pup. However, six men continued digging throughout the night.

They said they were convinced that the dog was still alive, although they said they had not heard any sounds. The owner of the dog said the pup had chased a raccoon into the pipe on the farm of Dr. Earl Ferree, a retired veterinarian.

Ferree yesterday ordered the arrest for trespass of Lester Jackson, 34, Indianapolis, whose son owned the dog, and Otto Ray, president of the Indiana Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. They were arrested as they dug into the tile drain pipe although they had posted a $1,000 bond to cover damages. Both were released on their own recognizance.

The 40 farmers and businessmen of Danville and nearby Avon met in Danville about 10 o'clock last night and about 20 cars drove at intervalls to the Ferree farm. Danville is about 35 miles northwest of Indianapolis.

Ferree, ill with a heart condition, was reported in an oxygen tent in his farm home a few hundred yards from the digging.

Ferree's stepson, William Hornaday, said that Ferree himself would have had the dog dug out if there was sufficient evidence it was in the pipe.

Grumblatt Appeals Divorce Judgment

Walter J. Grumblatt of 411 Durfee Dr. has filed an appeal in Third District Court of Appeals contesting a divorce granted his former wife, Clairbel, in a Marion County Common Pleas Court suit. Originally Grumblatt was granted the divorce and custody of two minor children in a decision handed down in May, 1951.

Mrs. Grumblatt later petitioned for a re-hearing of the case, however, and the original divorce was set aside in April, 1952. In a new hearing of the case, Mrs. Grumblatt was granted the divorce last November and the separation agreement entered into by the two in February, 1951, was set aside. She also was granted half-time custody of one child.

Canton Named All-American City by League

Canton, O., today was named one of ten cities receiving the All-American City Awards, co-sponsored by the National Municipal League and Look magazine.

Canton was cited for its citizens outstanding victory against a corrupt, vice-ridden municipal government, Look magazine reported.

Two other Ohio cities were runners-up in the contest. They were Toledo and Hamilton.

Other award-winning cities were: Daytona Beach, Fla.; De Soto, Mo.; Flint, Mich.; Park Forest-Rich Township High School District, Ill.; Peoria, Ill.; Petersburg, Va.; Port Angeles, Wash.; Richmond, Calif.; Scranton, Pa. and Shreveport, La.

Minstrel Show Will Be Featured By Farm Institute

Highlight of the Green Camp Farmers' Institute to be held Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 27-28, will be a minstrel show. It will be given Thursday at 8 p.m.

Interlocutor will be Robert Lashey, and end men will be William Clunk, Kenneth Hedges, Harold Clunk, Stanley Seiter, John Mills and Arthur Bish. It is under the direction of Richard L. Granlee, speech and business education teacher in the Green Camp School.

A group of dancers and a chorus will present special numbers as a part of the minstrel.

Other sessions will be Wednesday at 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., and Thursday at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m., all in the school auditorium. Election of officers for the new year will be held Thursday afternoon, and speaker for that meeting will be Larry Larsen of the Ohio Edison Co. In addition, there will be a skit by members of the Get Together Club and selections by Billy Johnston.

Wednesday afternoon there will be a selection by the junior and senior 4-H girls and a speaker from the State Highway Patrol. Wednesday night, with William Clunk acting as chairman, there will be a skit by the Boys 4-H Club, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts and the Happy Homemakers Club, with Harry Rittenhouse as speaker.

Speakers for divided sessions Thursday morning will be Dr. Walter D. McClaskey, veterinarian, talking to the men, and Miss Dorothy M. Gorby, Marion County home demonstration agent, talking to the women. Lunch will be served by Mt. Olive Grange.

Springfield Pastor Given Church Call

From among candidates for the pastorate of St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, members have voted to extend a call to Rev. M. L. Dolbeer of Springfield, a former missionary to India.

Elected to serve on the council were Carl Laib, Harry Lones, Ross Shoup, and William Fretz.

Filling the pulpit on Sunday morning will be Rev. Clyde Xander from Hamma Divinity School at Springfield. The Sunday School Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday. For a meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society Tuesday night, Mrs. Hillis Brown will be hostess.

Wyandot Popcorn, Popped-Right Co. Offices Are Moved

Officers of the Wyandot Popcorn Co. and the Popped-Right Corn Co., formerly located at 313 Bradford St., were moved this week to new quarters at 200 Oak St.

The companies have taken over the office building and warehouse on the east side of Oak St. formerly occupied by the Marion Lumber Co. The buildings have been reconditioned and remodeled to provide more room needed for business expansion, loading docks and parking facilities.

The Popped-Right Co.'s production plant, formerly on Mill St., is new located nine miles north of Marion.

W. Hoover Brown is president and George K. Brown is sales manager of the companies.

The Bradford St. building has been taken over by Dr. James S. Greetham.

Generals Transferred

TOKYO (AP)—Gen. John E. Hull today announced the transfer of Maj. Ridgely Gaither as head of the 40th Division in Korea to assistant chief of staff for military intelligence for the Far East and U. N. commands.

Gaither, who will reach his new headquarters in Tokyo tomorrow, replaces Maj. Gen. Riley F. Ennis. Ennis, a native of Paulding, Ohio, will return to the United States for reassignment after serving in the Far Ea t since May 1951.

Curriculum Group Will Be Organized

An organizational meeting of the Marion City Schools Curriculum Coordinating Council will be held in the speech room of Harding High School Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The purposes of the council will be explained at the first meeting. Ultimately, the council will be composed of a cross-section representation of Marion citizens who will work to improve the learning experiences of Marion students.

The council will include four representatives from each of the 14 city schools: the principal of the school, a teacher, a representative student and a parent.

Also attending the meeting will be members of the city board of education, Lester L. Dickey, superintendent of schools; Harold Edwards, director of instruction in the city school system; Mrs. Robert McCombs, Marion City PTA Council president; representatives from other interested groups, and individuals.

Although charcoal has been made for centuries, modern methods of heating wood in retorts and recovering such by-products as wood tar, acetone andacetic acid is comparatively modern.

HEADS FIRE DEPARTMENT

MT. GILEAD — Robert Trainer was elected president of the Mt. Gilead volunteer fire department at their regular meeting this week. Richard Young was elected secretary-treasurer and Harold Ullom was named public relations chairman. Officers renamed were: chief, Mel Geyer; captain, Bob Vaughn and lieutenant, Merle Huffman. After the business meeting members of the department worked on the new emergency truck. The truck will be used at future runs of the department.

The earliest railway coaches for passengers were the same type of vehicle used as road coaches when the first railways were built.

THE GUMPS By Gus Edson

HMPF! WELL, IT AIN'T GONNA DO YOU NO GOOD, SAGE..SPRAINED ANKLE OR NOT, I AIN'T GONNA STAND FOR NO DOUBLE CROSS.
PLEASE, SIR! HOW CAN I ASSURE YOU THERE IS NO DOUBLE CROSS IN THIS DEAL? YOU'LL GET EVERYTHING I'VE PROMISED.
MR. GOGARTY, DID YOU TURN UP ANY CLUES AS TO SAM SAGE'S WHEREABOUTS?
NOT YET, MR. GUMP, BUT WE WON'T QUIT.
NO BILL
ARE YOU FINDING IT A BIT EASIER TO PUT THAT CROOKED BANK CLERK OUT OF YOUR MIND?

Good Auto Service
Pays The Motorist More Than Anybody Else

He is the fellow who has the investment in the car . . and only GOOD service . . Regular service . . will protect that investment.

The failure of a single minor part often is sufficient to produce a chain of deficiencies in performance, in cost of operation, or in safe and comfortable motoring.

So . . It is only just GOOD COMMON SENSE to get good auto service . . it's just good sense to get DANNER'S SERVICE.

DANNER'S make a specialty of service, for they have complete up-to-date equipment, conscientious workmen, and a policy of management that is fully responsible for every detail of the work done.

News of the Churches

Union Church Crusade Will Enter Second Week

Second and final week of the union Spiritual Victory Crusade here, sponsored by the Marion County Ministerial Association and led by the Taylor Brothers evangelistic team, will begin Sunday night with the service held at Epworth Methodist Church.

Each of the co-operating churches will hold its own morning worship service, then combine at 7:30 p.m. to support the union effort. Both Rev. Charles Taylor and Rev. Laurie Taylor will be guest preachers at morning services.

REV. "CHARLIE" TAYLOR will give his "cowboy" sermon, "Brand 'Em to the Red!" which has gained widespread attention. He will tell of his experiences preaching to the cowboys on the ranches of Texas and New Mexico.

On Monday night, the evangelist will repeat a sermon he preached here to a capacity crowd in his previous Spiritual Victory Crusade meetings at Calvary EUB Church, under the title "Kill the Umpire!" This is a message on baseball, and is remembered by more people in Marion seemingly than any other preached in the previous series, according to Rev. Taylor.

TUESDAY AND Wednesday nights will again feature besides the sermons the travalog moving pictures, new color films taken by the evangelist on his latest trips, scenes of Alaska by way of the Alcan Highway, of the inland waterway from Alaska to Seattle, and of this year's Rose Parade at Pasadena, Calif., first time ever shown.

Again, Thursday Night will be designated as Music Night, and Rev. Laurie Taylor will play a program of "Great modern music," including the "Warsaw Concerto." The services will continue nightly except Saturday through Jan. 25 when the evangelist will tell his life story in a lecture illustrated with color moving pictures of England.

SERVICES SUNDAY morning at which Rev. "Charlie" Taylor and Rev. Laurie Taylor will preach will be at Calvary EUB Church and at Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church, respectively.

Special music arranged for these services will include the anthem by the choir at Calvary Church, "I Met My Master Face to Face," by Carrie B. Adams, and numbers by both the Junior and Senior Choirs at Forest Lawn Church.

For the morning worship service of Epworth Methodist Church Rev. Laurie Taylor will appear at the beginning to play the prelude. Anthem by the choir for the service will be "The Lord Is in His Holy Temple," Woodman.

A number of churches are again cancelling evening services and meetings for the week so that members may attend the crusade services.

Wesley Methodist

Gifts and memorials presented to Wesley Methodist Church recently will be dedicated Sunday morning at worship hour. The donors or their representatives will sit in a group in the front center section pews and take part in the dedication ceremony. Total value of the gifts is more than $1,500. The church is co-operating in the nightly services of the union Spiritual Victory Crusade at Epworth Church sponsored by the Marion County Ministerial Association. A membership class for children of sixth grade age has been started and is open to anyone wishing to attend the classes on Saturdays at 10 a.m. Organization of a new Girl Scout troop for Wesley Church is under way. Mrs. Lester Hines will be leader with Miss Dixie Porter, Mrs. Melvin McKnight, and Miss Barbara Cornette as her assistants. Plans are for the troop to meet next Thursday at 7 p.m. with any girls of sixth and seventh grades interested being invited to attend.

Emanuel Lutheran

Emanuel Lutheran Church will commemorate the 11th anniversary of the broadcasting of its Sunday morning worship services at the worship hour on Sunday morning. In keeping with the occasion, the three choirs of the congregation will sing anthems. The Junior Choir, under the direction of Miss Wanda McMahan, will sing, "The Lord Is Gracious." The Intermediate Choir, under the direction of William Dowler, will sing, "The King of Love My Shepherd Is."; and the Senior Choir, under the direction of Homer Huffman, will sing, "Laudamus". The sermon will be delivered by the pastor, Rev. M. E. Hollensen.

Members of the Senior Bible Class will meet in the church parlors at 8 p.m. Tuesday, and the Daughters of Luther will meet in the educational building at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The Bethany Bible Group will meet in the educational building at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Rev. Hollensen will install the newly elected officers and also present the Bible study at the meeting of the Women's Missionary Society at 2 p.m. Thursday in the church parlors.

Lead, Kindly Light

A composer dodges London traffic to write a melody

The Rev. John Bacchus Dykes could compose a melody in a thunder storm. Of the 300 hymntunes to his credit many were written in crowded railway stations and on trains. It is said that he wrote some of his best compositions in the pulpit while waiting to deliver his sermons. So neither the rumbling carriages nor clattering hordes of shoppers interrupted his thoughts as he hurried along the streets of London.

Composer Dykes was running through his mind a poem he had read in an old March, 1834, issue of "The British Magazine." The lines were under the title "Faith—Heavenly Leadings" and had been written in June, 1831, by a disturbed Protestant minister named John Henry Newman. Newman had vigorously criticized the Roman church. Then he pondered leaving the Protestant faith for the church he had denounced. By the time he was 30 the indecision had shattered his health and he took a trip to Italy for rest.

Homesick, stricken with fever and depressed, Newman waited three weeks for a return boat to his native England. When he finally got passage his ship stopped in the Mediterranean. The sails hung limp on the masts and not a breeze stirred for a week. With the prospect of starving at sea, added to his illness and confused mind, Newman wrote his prayer poem. He had no thought of its ever being used as a hymn. Two weeks later the ship docked. Twelve years later Newman made up his mind. He went to the Roman Church.

By the time John Bacchus Dykes reached his study that August day in 1865, the tune to an immortal hymn had been born. And Cardinal John Henry Newman always insisted that it was the tune Dykes composed while walking through the busiest section of London that made popular his words.

Lead, kindly light amid th' encircling gloom,
Lead Thou me on!
The night is dark, and I am far from home;
Lead Thou me on!

Keep Thou my feet;
I do not ask to see
The distant scene;
One step enough for me.

I was not ever thus, nor prayed that Thou
Shouldst lead me on;
I loved to choose and see my path; but now
Lead Thou me on!

I loved the garish day,
And, spite of fears,
Pride ruled my will,
Remember not past years.

So long Thy power hath blest me, sure it still
Will lead me on
O'er moor and fen, o'er crag and torrent, till
The night is gone.

And with the morn
Those angel faces smile,
Which I have loved long since,
And lost a while.

Christian Science

That harmony in daily affairs demands obedience to God's laws will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

The lesson-sermon entitled "Life" includes the following account of counsel by Christ Jesus from the Bible:

"And, behold, one came and said unto him, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good? There is none good but one, that is, God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments" (Matthew 19:16,17).

First E. and R.

A meeting of the First Evangelical and Reformed Church C.I.B. Class in the form of a "birthday party" will be held Sunday at 5:30 p.m. at the church. For the program, Merle H. Hughes will give an illustrated travel-log on his recent trip to South America. Youth Fellowship groups will meet at 6:30. The congregation will cooperate in the evening in the union service at Epworth Methodist Church conducted by the evangelists, the Taylor Brothers.

On Monday night, the Child Study Circle will meet with Mrs. Harold Wade as hostess. Mrs. J. Paul Goebel will speak on "The Child and the Church."

Annual congregational meeting will be Wednesday night at the church, beginning at 6:30 with a supper. William Warner, newly elected chairman of the Consistory, will preside for business. Yearly reports will be presented by the secretary, Robert Heiser, treasurer, Mrs. Forest Hayman, and the pastor, Rev. J. P. Goebel. In addition, there will be brief reviews of the year's work by the Church School superintendent, Robert Fogle, and by presidents of all organizations. During this time entertainment will be provided for the children. The Loyal Daughters Class will meet Thursday afternoon, entertained by Mrs. Nora Gorenflo. Meeting of the Missionary Circle has been postponed to Wednesday, the following week when Mrs. Francis Reardon will be hostess.

First Presbyterian

Ordination and installation of First Presbyterian Church officers for the new year will be held at morning worship service on Sunday. The pastor, Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, will preach on "The Church in These Days."

Emmanuel Baptist

The morning message at Emmanuel Baptist Church on Sunday will be the third in the series of sermons on the theme of the Lord's Table. The basis for this sermon will be the eleventh chapter of 1 Corinthians, and will "explain why many Christians are ill and why some are taken in death." The evening sermon is a continuation of the series discussing the scriptural truths concerning the devil.

Prospect Street

To begin the youth program at Prospect Street Methodist Church Sunday, the choir rehearsal will be held at 4:30 p.m., followed by recreation at 5 and "snack supper" at 6 provided by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boyd and Mr. and Mrs. John Boyd. For Intermediate Fellowship, the topic at 6:30 wil be "Is Our Church in Danger?" led by Carolyn Moon. Senior Fellowship will meet at that hour also. The church is cooperating in the nightly union services at Epworth Church sponsored by the Marion County Ministerial Association.

Salem E. and R.

Another in a series of sermons on the general theme of women of the Bible will be given Sunday morning at Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church. This will be the story of Deborah. Annual meeting of the congregation with potluck supper at 6:30 p.m. will be held Wednesday. The yearly reports of the pastor and of organizations of the church will be given. George Dutt will preside.

The Gift of God

A Sermonette

By REV. NORMAN D. RENN
Pastor of Fite Memorial Baptist Church

Text: "The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Romans 6:23.

We have remarkable verses in Ephesians 2:8-9. God gives us the truth about salvation. "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast." In these verses we are told three things, first, eternal life is by grace, second, eternal life is through faith, and third, eternal life is not of works. Here in the Bible God's way to heaven has been reduced to simple expression.

ETERNAL LIFE is given by God's grace. New grace is God assuming all of the sinner's responsibility. No matter how deep your sin, no matter how far you have wandered from God, grace takes the whole load. The Holy Spirit tells us in Hebrews 10:10, "We are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all." The sacrifice of Christ is the supreme revelation of God's grace, and it is the sacrifice by means of which eternal life in heaven is made possible to guilty man.

The apostle Paul declares in Titus 2:11, "The grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared." Then he says in Ephesians 2:5, "By grace are ye saved" and in verse 8 again, "By grace are ye saved." So we see that the scriptures teach that eternal life is by the grace of God.

ETERNAL LIFE is given by faith. God demands faith from man. "But without faith it is impossible to please Him." Hebrews 11:6. The apostle Paul told the Philippian jailor, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." Acts 16:31. The Holy Spirit says, "it is the gift of God." So the faith God demands God gives. The faith which God requires of you God imparts to you. When God receives faith from you and you become a Christian you actually present the faith which he himself has given to you. By faith you trust in the finished work of Jesus Christ. There at the cross he tasted death in your place. He was made sin for you. The result of your trusting in Christ's death for you is the gift of eternal life.

GOD DEMANDS faith in his Son. Man has sinned and is incapable of faith. So God provides the faith he neds. We read in Romans 3: "All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God," "Being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus." "That He might be just and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus," "That a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law." So from God's side, eternal life is by grace. From man's side, eternal life is by faith, and even that faith is a gift from God.

Eternal life is not given as a result of good works. God says, "not of works lest any man should boast." Human effort is ruled out, and man's pride is hurt. Anything that hurts pride is terrible. God fully knows the powerlessness of our lives. He has made the kind of provision which admits that we are without hope and without help unless He in grace shall make that provision for us. He says in Romans 4:6, "God imputeth righteousness without work" and in chapter 11:6, "And if by grace, then is it no more of works." All ground for pride is taken away. Some have believed about Christ all of their lives. They think religion will take them to heaven. But eternal life in heaven is sure only after one has received Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour.

WHAT HAVE YOU done with Christ? If you know that he lives in your heart, you have eternal life. We read in I John 5:13 "These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life." To choose life is to choose Christ. There is no time like the present to make the right choice.

NO PAY FOR GOOD DEED

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—A "good Samaritan" has to be alert, J. L. Carroll learned from a district court jury. Carroll sued another motorist for $35,000 damages when he was run over while changing a flat for a woman motorist. The jury rejected his suit and said he should have kept a better watch for oncoming cars.
